New York City

New York City, also known as the Big Apple, is both a huge city and the name of the state where it is located. It is the most important city in the United States and the biggest port too, however it is not the capital city. It has more than 9.500.000 inhabitants.

There are five main boroughs and several islands in New York connected to the continent by many bridges. The most famous islands are probably Manhattan and Liberty Island where you can find the not less famous Statue of Liberty, offered by the French to the American people as a Symbol of freedom.

New York is very big, bigger than we can imagine. There are three airports: J.F.K., La Guardia and Newark; 200 bus routes; 12.000 taxis and ten subway lines. New York streets are also larger and longer, some of them are kms long and they are named with numbers. The most important avenue is 5th Avenue, famous for its luxury shops.

The biggest and most famous park in New York is Central Park, in the centre of Manhattan, where you can find a zoo, skating rinks, sports courts, two lakes, a pool...

New York is also well known for its museums, skyscrapers as big as your eyes can see Broadway and its shows, cinemas, theatres, restaurants and the financial world.
