Feminist Criticism and Social Change (RLE Feminist Theory) Deborah Rosenfelt, Judith Newton, 2013-05-20 This lively and controversial collection of essays sets out to theorize and practice a materialist feminist criticism of literature and culture Such a criticism is based on the view that the material conditions in which men and women live are central to an understanding of culture and society It emphasises the relation of gender to other categories of analysis such as class and race and considers the connection between ideology and cultural practice and the ways in which all relations of power change with changing social and economic conditions By presenting a wide range of work by major feminist scholars this anthology in effect defines as well as illustrates the materialist feminist tendency in current literary criticism The essays in the first part of the book examine race ideology and the literary canon and explore the ways in which other critical discourse such as those of deconstruction and French feminism might be useful to a feminist and materialist criticism The second part of the book contains examples of such criticism in practice with studies of individual works writers and ideas An introduction by the editors situates the collected essays in relation both to one another and to a shared materialist feminist project Feminist Criticism and Social Change demonstrates the important contribution of materialist feminist criticism to our understanding of literature and society and fulfils a crucial need among those concerned with gender and its relation to criticism Feminisms Robyn R. Warhol, Diane Price Herndl, 1997 In the landmark 1991 edition of Feminisms Robyn Warhol and Diane Price Herndl assembled the most comprehensive collection of American and British feminist literary criticism ever to be published In this revised edition the editors have updated the volume in keeping with the expanded parameters of feminist literary discourse With the inclusion of more than two dozen new essays along with a major reorganization of the sections in which they appear Warhol and Price Herndl have again established the measure for representing the latest developments in the field of feminist literary theory Believing that the feminist movement can only move forward where difference commands attention not dismissal or negativism they have continued the original collection's mission of providing a multiplicity of perspectives and approaches This anthology contains three new sections Conflict Gaze and Practice and includes more selections by and about women of color and lesbians Aimed at academics and the general public alike this collection is an indispensable guide to the range of practice on campus today in the field of feminist literary criticism

Reading the Romantic Heroine Leslie W. Rabine, 1985 Gender, Race and Class in Media Gail Dines, Jean M. Humez, 1995 This fine collection of perspectives and information will fill a major gap and help to push communication study in an urgently needed direction Undergraduates graduate students and faculty alike have much to gain from this text John Downing Department of Radio Television Film University of Texas Austin This is a well conceived and provocative collection that goes a long way toward filling a real void in available classroom textbooks I have no doubt that it will provoke many hours of discussion and debate about the relations between contemporary media forms and the politics of identity and difference Larry Grossberg Morris Davis Professor of Communication Studies University of North Carolina Chapel Hill This is one of the few books that really attempts to take the topic of mass media seriously while demonstrating a range of languages and approaches that illustrate what doing cultural studies is actually about Henry Giroux Waterbury Chair The Pennsylvania State University A terrific book broad based in cultural and critical studies Gender Race and Class in Media is an excellent text for courses in which multiple perspectives are represented Ellen Wartella Dean College of Communication University of Texas Austin An introductory text reader Gender Race and Class in Media critically examines the mass media as economic and cultural institutions that shape our social identities especially in regard to gender race and class Through an analysis of such popular genres as soap operas talk shows rap music sitcoms rock videos pornography made for TV movies advertising and romance novels students are invited to engage in critical mass media scholarship From a critical cultural perspective the comprehensive introduction delineates the major paradigms in media studies today It outlines the text s integrated approach to media studies which incorporates three distinct but related areas of investigation within media studies political economy of production textual analysis audience response resistance Chapter introductions to the selected readings which are drawn from original essays and influential previously published articles provide a framework for understanding and analyzing how gender race and class are structural and experiential categories that inform the production construction and consumption of media representations Gender Race and Class in Media is designed as a comprehensive critical introduction to mass media but it can also be used as a supplement to a more standard text This text reader is also valuable for such courses as sociology of media media criticism cultural studies popular culture journalism visual literacy and especially where a critical approach is used

An Imperialist Love Story Amira Jarmakani, 2015-07-31

A curious figure stalks the pages of a distinct subset of mass market romance novels aptly called desert romances Animalistic yet sensitive dark and attractive the desert prince or sheikh emanates manliness and raw sexual power In the years since September 11 2001 the sheikh character has steadily risen in popularity in romance novels even while depictions of Arab masculinity as backward and violent in nature have dominated the cultural landscape An Imperialist Love Story contributes to the broader conversation about the legacy of orientalist representations of Arabs in Western popular culture Combining close readings of novels discursive analysis of blogs and forums and interviews with authors Jarmakani explores popular investments in the war on terror by examining the collisions between fantasy and reality in desert romances Focusing on issues of security freedom and liberal multiculturalism she foregrounds the role that desire plays in contemporary formations of U S imperialism Drawing on transnational feminist theory and cultural studies An Imperialist Love Story offers a radical reinterpretation of the war on terror demonstrating romance to be a powerful framework for understanding how it works and how it perseveres
