Race, Crime and Criminal Justice Anita Kalunta-Crumpton, 2010 In some parts of the world race is a key social variable in criminological debates on crime and criminal justice practice Yet little has been studied regarding the issues of race and crime internationally This collection fills that gap drawing upon perspectives from 13 countries across 4 continents to provide a comparative assessment on the influence of human variations on crime discourses offending experiences of criminal victimization and criminal justice responses in differing societies Covering Europe Australia and New Zealand South Africa Brazil Canada and the United States and drawing on an international line up of scholars this book examines the similarities and differences of race crime and criminal justice in international perspective Race, Crime and Justice

Barbara Hudson, 1996 Race Crime and Justice brings together influential British and American articles on the involvement of minority ethnic groups with crime and criminal justice. After reviewing empirical and theoretical issues, the volume presents key facts about racial imbalances in prison populations and addresses the question of whether these are the result of discrimination by the criminal justice systems of the United Kingdom and the United States or whether they can be explained by higher crime rates among certain racial groups. Articles included cover possible discrimination by the police and the courts and the effects of particular criminal justice strategies. Recent research on race, biological characteristics and criminality is summarised and challenged, as is underclass theory which has had significant impact on thinking about crime and criminal justice in the 1990s. A final section deals with the criminal justice treatment of black women and looks towards a more gendered understanding of the effect of race on crime and justice.

Race, Crime, and Justice: Contexts and Complexities Lauren Krivo, Ruth D. Peterson, 2009-06-02 To what extent does racial discrimination exist within the criminal justice system and to what extent is that inequality in crime and justice an outgrowth of structured societal inequality? The empirical picture of racism and criminal justice is complex and although a large body of valuable research on the intersection of race and crime exists, new and innovative research is needed. This special volume of The ANNALS lays a solid foundation for that research. This volume is organized into three broad sections that represent the types of emergent research from this network of scholars and focuses on patterns, processes and consequences. This volume of The ANNALS provides an innovative approach to understanding the ways that race, ethnicity, crime and justice are interconnected within the racialized U.S. society but it also fosters solutions to inequalities in the criminal justice arena. Students, scholars and policymakers will find this collection of cutting edge articles avoids taking a one size fits all approach to problems of inequity and offers meaningful and novel perspectives to this complex volume.

Kalunta-Crumpton, 2012-01-25 This book examines race, ethnicity, crime and criminal justice in the Americas and moves beyond the traditional focus on North America to incorporate societies in Central America, South America and the Caribbean.

Race, Crime, and Justice Steven E. Barkan, 2018-09-14 Brief, timely and accessible Race Crime and Justice: The Continuing American Dilemma examines many critical issues including why over the past few decades African Americans, Latinos and Native Americans were swept into jails and prisons at rates far beyond their share of the national population. Steven E. Barkan explores racial/ethnic disparities in criminal justice involvement, discrimination in policing, prosecution and sentencing, the rise and collateral consequences of mass incarceration, racial bias in news media coverage of crime, racial/ethnic differences in rates of criminal behavior and victimization, and social and criminal justice policies that if successfully implemented would help correct many of the injustices in the criminal justice system. About the Series: Keynotes in Criminology and Criminal Justice provides essential knowledge on important contemporary matters of crime, law and justice to a broad audience of readers. Volumes are written by leading scholars in that area. Concise, accessible

The System in Black and White Michael W. Markowitz, Delores D. Jones-Brown, 2000-04-30 In a collection of compelling contributions to the study of the nexus between race crime and justice noted scholars in the field critique many long held assumptions and myths about race challenging criminal justice policymakers to develop new and effective strategies for dealing with the social problems such misunderstandings create In sections devoted to criminological theory law enforcement courts and the law juvenile delinquency and gender contributors endeavor to dispel myths about African American involvement in the criminal justice system In so doing a number of important facts are established about the race crime nexus For example in an analysis of criminological theory it is concluded that race as a singular social factor has not been adequately represented in existing paradigms The subject of police profiling of African Americans reveals an evolution of court decisions that have marginalized rather than liberated African Americans since slavery Each contributor challenges both the reader and the criminal justice system to develop meaningful strategies for addressing the racism that still pervades our system of justice A chapter on women of color in prison makes a compelling argument that such institutions often represent safer environments than the life on the streets women leave behind This persuasive volume will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students as well as faculty in Sociology Criminal Justice policy development African American and Women s Studies

Malign Neglect Michael Tonry, 1995 Tonry focuses on the racial disparities in the criminal justice system especially apparent discrimination toward black males
