Reading Fiction:

Reading Fiction in Antebellum America James L. Machor, 2011-04-01 James L Machor offers a sweeping exploration of how American fiction was received in both public and private spheres in the United States before the Civil War Machor takes four antebellum authors Edgar Allan Poe Herman Melville Catharine Sedgwick and Caroline Chesebro and analyzes how their works were published received and interpreted Drawing on discussions found in book reviews and in private letters and diaries Machor examines how middle class readers of the time engaged with contemporary fiction and how fiction reading evolved as an interpretative practice in nineteenth century America Through careful analysis Machor illuminates how the reading practices of nineteenth century Americans shaped not only the experiences of these writers at the time but also the way the writers were received in the twentieth century What Machor reveals is that these authors were received in ways strikingly different from how they are currently read thereby shedding significant light on their present status in the literary canon in comparison to their critical and popular positions in their own time Machor deftly combines response and reception criticism and theory with work in the history of reading to engage with groundbreaking scholarship in historical hermeneutics In so doing Machor takes us ever closer to understanding the particular and varying reading strategies of historical audiences and how they impacted authors conceptions of their own readership

Why Women Read Fiction Helen Taylor, 2019-12-05 Ian McEwan once said When women stop reading the novel will be dead This book explains how precious fiction is to contemporary women readers and how they draw on it to tell the stories of their lives Female readers are key to the future of fiction and as parents teachers and librarians the glue for a literate society Women treasure the chance to read alone but have also gregariously shared reading experiences and memories with mothers daughters grandchildren and female friends For so many reading novels and short stories enables them to escape and to spread their wings intellectually and emotionally This book written by an experienced teacher scholar of women s writing and literature festival director draws on over 500 interviews with and questionnaires from women readers and writers It describes how where and when British women read fiction and examines why stories and writers influence the way female readers understand and shape their own life stories Taylor explores why women are the main buyers and readers of fiction members of book clubs attendees at literary festivals and organisers of days out to fictional sites and writers homes The book analyses the special appeal and changing readership of the genres of romance erotica and crime It also illuminates the reasons for British women s abiding love of two favourite novels Pride and Prejudice and Jane Eyre Taylor offers a cornucopia of witty and wise women s voices of both readers themselves and also writers such as Hilary Mantel Helen Dunmore Katie Fforde and Sarah Dunant The book helps us understand why in Jackie Kay s words our lives are mapped by books

Why We Read Fiction Lisa Zunshine, 2006 Why We Read Fiction offers a lucid overview of the most exciting area of research in contemporary cognitive psychology known as Theory of Mind and discusses its implications for literary studies It covers a broad range of fictional narratives from Richardson's Clarissa, Dostoyevski's Crime and Punishment and Austen's Pride and Prejudice to Woolf's Mrs Dalloway, Nabokov's Lolita and Hammett's The Maltese Falcon. Zunshine's surprising new interpretations of well-known literary texts and popular cultural representations constantly prod her readers to rethink their own interest in fictional narrative. Written for a general audience, this study provides a jargon-free introduction to the rapidly growing interdisciplinary field known as cognitive approaches to literature and culture.

Why Reading Books Still Matters

Martha C. Pennington, Robert P. Waxler, 2017-08-29 Bringing together strands of public discourse about valuing personal achievement at the expense of social values and the impacts of global capitalism, mass media and digital culture on the lives of children, this book challenges the potential of science and business to solve the world's problems without a complementary emphasis on social values. The selection of literary works discussed illustrates the power of literature and human arts to instill such values and foster change. The book offers a valuable foundation for the field of literacy education by providing knowledge about the importance of language and literature that educators can use in their own teaching and advocacy work.

Steps to Successful Reading: Fiction Susan Stein, 2001 Provides a variety of fiction genres ways to develop reading strategies, teaching tips and strategies for addressing English language learners.

Reading Fiction with Lucian

Karen ní Mheallaigh, 2014-11-10 This book offers a captivating new interpretation of Lucian as a fictional theorist and writer to stand alongside the novelists of the day, bringing to bear on his works a whole new set of reading strategies. It argues that the aesthetic and cultural issues Lucian faced in a world of mimesis and replication were akin to those found in postmodern contexts: the ubiquity of the fake, the erasure of origins, the focus on the freakish and weird at the expense of the traditional. In addition to exploring the texture of Lucian's own writing, Dr n Mheallaigh uses Lucian as a focal point through which to examine other fictional texts of the period, including Antonius Diogenes' The Incredible Things Beyond Thule, Dictys' Journal of the Trojan War and Ptolemy Chennus' Novel History, and reveals the importance of fiction's engagement with its contemporary culture of writing, entertainment and wonder.

Reading Novels During the Covid-19 Pandemic Ben Davies, Christina Lupton, Johanne Gormsen Schmidt, 2022-10-20 Drawing on an ethnographic study of novel readers in Denmark and the UK during the Covid-19 pandemic, this book provides a snapshot of a phenomenal moment in modern history. The ethnographic approach shows what no historical account of books published during the pandemic will be able to capture: namely, the movement of readers between new purchases and books long kept in their collections. The book follows readers who have tuned into novels about plague, apocalypse and racial violence, but also readers whose taste for older novels and for re-reading novels they knew earlier in their lives has grown. Alternating between chapters that analyse single texts that were popular (Albert Camus's The Plague, Ali Smith's Summer, Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre and others) that describe clusters of, for example, dystopian fiction and nature writing, this work brings out the diverse quality of the Covid-19 bookshelf. Time is of central importance to this study, both in terms of the time of lockdown and the temporality of reading itself within this wider disrupted sense of time By exploring these varied experiences this book investigates the larger question of how the consumption of novels depends on and shapes people s experience of non work time providing a specific lens through which to examine the phenomenology of reading more generally This timely work also negotiates debates in the study of reading that distinguish theoretically between critical reading and reading for pleasure between professional and lay reading All sides of the sociological and literary debate must be brought to bear in understanding what readers tell us about what novels have meant to them in this complex historical moment
