Sense Of Mission 2004:

The Sense of Mission in Russian Foreign Policy Alicja Curanović, 2021-03-05 This book explores how far messianism the conviction that Russia has a special historical destiny is present in and affects Russian foreign policy Based on extensive original research including analysis of public statements policy documents and opinion polls the book argues that a sense of mission is present in Russian foreign policy that it is very similar in its nature to thinking about Russia's mission in Tsarist times that the sense of mission matters more for Russia's elites than for Russia's masses and that Russia's special mission is emphasised more when there are questions about the regime's legitimacy as well as great power status Overall the book demonstrates that a sense of mission is an important factor in Russian foreign policy

History and National Ideology in Greek Postmodernist Fiction Gerasimos Katsan, 2013-04-04 History and National Ideology in Greek Postmodernist Fiction investigates the ways postmodernist literary techniques have been adopted by Greek authors Taking into consideration the global impetus of postmodernism the book examines its local implications Framed by a discussion of major postmodernist thinkers the book argues for the ability of local cultures to retain their uniqueness in the face of globalization while at the same time adapting to the new global situation The combination of external global influences and the specific internal concerns of Greek national literature makes the emergence of postmodernism in Greece distinctive from that of other national contexts The book engages in larger theoretical debates about the crisis of national identity in the context of postmodern globalization and the resurgence of nationalist ideology either as a response to globalization or the exigencies of historical events This crisis has been brought on in part by the very postmodernist and poststructuralist questioning of the ideologies upon which nation states construct themselves The central argument of the book is that postmodernist Greek writers question the idea of national identity based on both the impact of globalization and a reexamination of the discourses of national ideology they suggest a turn away from the traditional concerns with cultural homogeneity towards an acceptance of multiplicity and diversity which is reflected through experimentation with postmodernist literary techniques Consequently the unifying idea of this book is national identity as it is reconfigured in recent contemporary novels My analysis incorporates the view that metafiction is a borderline or marginal discourse that exists on the boundary between fiction and criticism The book illuminates the connections between the formal concerns of contemporary authors and the larger debates and philosophical underpinnings of postmodernism in general Regionalized Management of Medicine Hui Shen,Yiming Zeng,Li Li,Xiangdong globalized world Paul's Understanding of the Church's Mission Robert L. Plummer, 2006-06-01 Did Paul expect his churches to engage in evangelistic activity which mirrored his own Or have modern readers of the Bible wrongly projected Paul's apostolic passion upon the communities that he founded Such is the charge of several recent authors and if their thesis is correct nothing could have larger implications for how the modern church engages in mission In this book Robert L Plummer engages in a careful study of Paul's letters to determine if the apostle expected the communities to which he wrote to engage in outward directed missionary activity Plummer helpfully summarizes the discussion to date on the debated issue judiciously handles contested texts and provides a way forward in addressing this critical question While admitting that Paul rarely explicitly commands the communities he founded to evangelize Plummer amasses significant incidental data to provide a convincing case that Paul did indeed expect his churches to engage in outward directed missionary activity Throughout the study Plummer progressively builds a theological basis for the church's mission that is both compelling and distinctively
