Senses And Communication:

The Senses and Communication Tim Halliday,1992 This is an introductory text to the neurophysiology of the senses and communication The study of the sensory systems of humans and other animals is closely linked to communication Combining the two subject areas in one volume provides an integrated approach to the senses drawing on both neuroanatomy and neurophysiology to provide a picture of the structure and function of the senses Understanding how the sensations provided by receptors are perceived within the brain is well illustrated by the example of hearing and perception of speech in humans Animal behaviour reminds us that our sensory view of the world is not the same as all other animals Different species have different windows on their world giving each a partial view of the environment as a whole The Five Senses of Communication Michel Tréheux,2015-12-07 Senses and Communication Open University. Biology: Brain & Behaviour Course Team,1996-01-31 Sensitive Souls Brian J. Ford,1999 Starting from the assumption that humans have always believed themselves innately superior to other species this work sets about demolishing such views Can animals feel love Might they be sensitive and sentient rather than passive and reactive The Human Interest Library ,1914

Multimodality in Language and Speech Systems Björn Granström,D. House,I. Karlsson,2013-04-17 This book is based on contributions to the Seventh European Summer School on Language and Speech Communication that was held at KTH in Stockholm Sweden in July of 1999 under the auspices of the European Language and Speech Network ELSNET The topic of the summer school was Multimodality in Language and Speech Systems MiLaSS The issue of multimodality in interpersonal face to face communication has been an important research topic for a number of years With the increasing sophistication of computer based interactive systems using language and speech the topic of multimodal interaction has received renewed interest both in terms of human human interaction and human machine interaction Nine lecturers contributed to the summer school with courses on specialized topics ranging from the technology and science of creating talking faces to human human communication which is mediated by computer for the handicapped Eight of the nine lecturers are represented in this book The summer school attracted more than 60 participants from Europe Asia and North America representing not only graduate students but also senior researchers from both academia and industry The Book of Knowledge Arthur Mee,1911 The Human Interest Library Bp. Samuel Fallows, Henry Woldmar Ruoff,1914

Phenomenology and the Norms of Perception Maxime Doyon,2024 In philosophy perception is usually evaluated considering epistemological concerns about truth and falsity Doyon suggests instead that it is governed by different immanent perceptual norms that are not disconnected from reality rather they tell us how our experience of reality is shaped This book explores these ideas and their implications Sensing Law Sheryl Hamilton,Diana Majury,Dawn Moore,Neil Sargent,Christiane Wilke,2016-11-25 A rich collection of interdisciplinary essays this book explores the question what is to be found at the intersection of the sensorium and law s empire Examining the problem of how legal rationalities try to grasp what can only be sensed through the body these essays problematize the Cartesian framework that has long separated the mind from the body reason from feeling and the human from the animal In doing so they consider how the sensorium can operate variously as a tool of power or as a means of countering the exercise of regulatory force The senses it is argued operate as a vector for the implication of subjects in legal webs but also as a powerful site of resistance to legal definition and determination From the sensorium of animals to technologically mediated perception the ways in which the law senses and the ways in which senses are brought before the law invite a questioning of the categories of liberal humanism And as this volume demonstrates this questioning opens up the both interesting and important possibility of imagining other sensual subjectivities

Personality and Telepathy Frank Challice Constable,1911 The Principles of Nature, Her Divine Revelations, and a Voice to Mankind Andrew Jackson Davis,1855 Embodiment, Relation, Community Garnet C. Butchart,2019-01-08 In this volume Garnet C Butchart shows how human communication can be understood as embodied relations and not merely as a mechanical process of transmission Expanding on contemporary philosophies of speech and language self and other and community and immunity this book challenges many common assumptions constructs and problems of communication theory while offering compelling new resources for future study Human communication has long been characterized as a problem of transmitting information or the outward sharing of inner thought through mediated channels of exchange Butchart questions that model and the various theories to which it gives rise Drawing from the work of Giorgio Agamben Roberto Esposito Jean Luc Nancy and Jacques Lacan thinkers who along with Martin Heidegger and Michel Foucault have critiqued the modern notion of a rational subject Butchart shows that the subject is shaped by language rather than preformed and that humans embody and not just use the signs and contexts of interaction that form what he calls a communication community Accessibly written and engagingly researched Embodiment Relation Community is relevant for researchers and advanced students of communication cultural studies translation and rhetorical studies especially those who work with a humanistic or interpretive paradigm

Cities for People Jan Gehl,2013-03-05 For more than forty years Jan Gehl has helped to transform urban environments around the world based on his research into the ways people actually use or could use the spaces where they live and work In this revolutionary book Gehl presents his latest work creating or recreating cityscapes on a human scale He clearly explains the methods and tools he uses to reconfigure unworkable cityscapes into the landscapes he believes they should be cities for people Taking into account changing demographics and changing lifestyles Gehl emphasizes four human issues that he sees as essential to successful city planning He explains how to develop cities that are Lively Safe Sustainable and Healthy Focusing on these issues leads Gehl to think of even the largest city on a very small scale For Gehl the urban landscape must be considered through the five human senses and experienced at the speed of walking rather than at the speed of riding in a car or bus or train This small scale view he argues is too frequently neglected in contemporary projects In a final chapter Gehl makes a plea for city planning on a human scale in the fast growing cities of developing countries A Toolbox presenting key principles overviews of methods and keyword lists concludes the book The book is extensively illustrated with over 700 photos and drawings of examples from Gehl's work around the globe

Knowledge-Based Intelligent Information and Engineering Systems Vasile Palade, 2003-08-28 During recent decades we have witnessed not only the introduction of automation into the work environment but we have also seen a dramatic change in how automation has influenced the conditions of work While some 30 years ago the addition of a computer was considered only for routine and boring tasks in support of humans the balance has dramatically shifted to the computer being able to perform almost any task the human is willing to delegate The very fast pace of change in processor and information technology has been the main driving force behind this development Advances in automation and especially Artificial Intelligence AI have enabled the formation of a rather unique team with human and electronic members The team is still supervised by the human with the machine as a subordinate associate or assistant sharing responsibility authority and autonomy over many tasks The requirement for teaming human and machine in a highly dynamic and unpredictable task environment has led to impressive achievements in many supporting technologies These include methods for system analysis design and engineering and in particular for information processing for cognitive and complex knowledge 1 engineering

Gestures Giovanni Maddalena, Fabio Ferrucci, Michela Bella, Matteo Santarelli, 2024-09-23 Over the past few years scientists and philosophers have discussed the concept of gesture as promising to overcome hyper intellectualist conceptions of human beings Its ascendancy reaffirmed the importance of the pragmatic relational dimension in human experience and cognitive processes Many questions arise when we focus on the cognitive role of gestures especially in the new cultural landscape shaped by the digital revolution Does the idea of gestures highlight the preeminence of bodily experiences Does it lead to the thinning of the distinction between humans and nonhuman animals Do gestures help us rethink the allegedly higher human capacities in an antireductionist vein Do gestures involve reasoning Are they purely external actions Do they serve to communicate or is all communication a form of gesture What kinds of social relations are involved in the concept of gesture According to a multidisciplinary orientation the book inquiries into the possibilities and issues opened up by attending to a philosophy of gestures in philosophy sociology psychology anthropology and communication studies Given the current centrality of gestures the general aim of the book is to reconsider the meaning of gestures and try to answer old and new questions
