Culture, Biology, and Anthropological Demography Eric Abella Roth, 2004-08-16 Two distinctive approaches to the study of human demography exist within anthropology today anthropological demography and human evolutionary ecology The first stresses the role of culture in determining population parameters while the second posits that demographic rates reflect adaptive behaviors that are the products of natural selection Both sub disciplines have achieved notable successes but each has ignored and been actively disdainful of the other This text attempts a rapprochement of anthropological demography and human evolutionary ecology through recognition of common research topics and the construction of a broad theoretical framework incorporating both cultural and biological motivation Both these approaches are utilized to search for demographic strategies in varied cultural and temporal contexts ranging from African pastoralists through North American post industrial societies As such this book is relevant to cultural and biological anthropologists demographers sociologists and historians

Yeoh, 2006-01-16 The processes of migration and health are inextricably linked in complex ways with migration impacting on the mental and physical health of individuals and communities Health itself can be a motivation for moving or a reason for staying and migration can have implications on the health of those who move those who are left behind and the communities that receive migrants This volume brings together some of the increasing number of researchers who are studying health and migration in Asia a continent which is a major exporter and importer of human resources Using both quantitative and qualitative approaches the essays included in this work investigate the interdisciplinary issues of health and health related behaviours in the field of migration Comprehensive and scholarly Migration and Health in Asia also covers major themes such as the pandemics of HIV AIDS and SARS differential access to health and civil society for migrants and the health of the populations who are left behind

War in the Blood Chris Beyrer, 2017-07-15 Effective treatment for HIV and AIDS came in 1996 For sufferers in the developed world this marked a true watershed moment the end of the death sentence But for many in the developing world including in Southeast Asia these new treatments remained far out of reach In his early thirties following the loss of his partner to an AIDS related illness Chris Beyrer wrote the first edition of War in the Blood Three decades later having served as president of the International AIDS Society he believes we have arrived at an extraordinary milestone For the first time a patient has been demonstrably cured of HIV new vaccine trials in Thailand have shown great promise and the PrEP programme genuinely works So why are over half of the estimated 38.8 million people living with HIV still not on treatment War in the Blood is a labour of love both a celebratory account of Southeast Asia and the story of our failure to protect those most vulnerable the world over gay men adolescent girls sex workers drug users and transgender women Beyrer offers an impassioned plea for our communities and governments and our own hearts and minds to stop denying the realities of sex sexuality and gender and to take affirmative action

Making Sense of AIDS Leslie Butt, Richard

Eves, 2008-05-31 In Melanesia rates of HIV infection are among the highest in the Pacific and increasing rapidly with grave humanitarian development and political implications There is a great need for social research on HIV AIDS in the region to provide better insights into the sensitive issues surrounding HIV transmission This collection the first book on HIV and AIDS in the Pacific region gathers together stunning and original accounts of the often surprising ways that people make sense of the AIDS epidemic in various parts of Melanesia The volume addresses substantive issues concerning AIDS and contemporary sexualities relations of power and moralities themes that provide a powerful backdrop for twenty first century understandings of the tensions between sexuality religion and politics in many parts of the world

Fault Lines of Care

Carina Heckert, 2018-06 The HIV epidemic in Bolivia has received little attention on a global scale in light of the country's low HIV prevalence rate However by profiling the largest city in this landlocked Latin American country Carina Heckert shows how global health funded HIV care programs at times clash with local realities which can have catastrophic effects for people living with HIV who must rely on global health resources to survive These ethnographic insights as a result can be applied to AIDS programs across the globe In Fault Lines of Care Heckert provides a detailed examination of the effects of global health and governmental policy decisions on the everyday lives of people living with HIV in Santa Cruz She focuses on the gendered dynamics that play a role in the development and implementation of HIV care programs and shows how decisions made from above impact what happens on the ground
