Pratt, 2016-08-24 Excerpt from Shade and Ornamental Trees of California While highways to be sure are of extreme importance to motorists an importance which can scarcely be overestimated highways are not merely for motorists Travelers from the East constantly comment upon a California phenomenon never seen in Eastern cities the long strings of men and girls pouring out of our cities and towns on holidays clad in hiking costumes and filing along the roadways for the roads lead to the trails and the trails to the hills I The work of our State Department of Forestry in planting and decorating the highways assumes therefore more than a special or group interest While such improvements increase the pleasure and contentment of the traveler and add large economic values to the regions traversed by the roads the work serves an additional purpose in giving expression to the spirit of our people their feeling for the out of doors for the hills valleys and mountain ranges of this state For these roads will not merely carry the traffic load of trade binding city to city but ably planned and adorned they will be silvan threads worthy to join the wonderlands of California each to each and these in turn with the centers of population In this manner such work will give a visible sign of the mental attitude and Spirit of the Californians Willis Linn Jepson University of California June 18 1921 About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
