Celestial Shadows John Westfall,William Sheehan,2014-11-19 Much of what is known about the universe came from the study of celestial shadows This book looks in detail at the way eclipses and other celestial shadows have given us amazing insights into the nature of the objects in our solar system and how they are even helping us discover and analyze planets that orbit stars other than our Sun A variety of eclipses transits and occultations of the moons of Jupiter and Saturn Pluto and its satellite Charon asteroids and stars have helped astronomers to work out their dimensions structures and shapes even the existence of atmospheres and structures of exoplanets Long before Columbus set out to reach the Far East by sailing West the curved shadow of the Earth on the Moon during a lunar eclipse revealed that we inhabit a round world a globe More recently comparisons of the sunlit and Earthlit parts of the Moon have been used to determine changes in the Earth's brightness as a way of monitoring possible effects in cloud coverage which may be related to global warming. Shadows were used by the Greek mathematician Eratosthenes to work out the first estimate of the circumference of the Earth by Galileo to measure the heights of the lunar mountains and by eighteenth century astronomers to determine the scale of the Solar System itself. Some of the rarest and most wonderful shadows of all are those cast onto Earth by the lovely Evening Star Venus as it goes between the Earth and the Sun. These majestic transits of Venus occur at most two in a century after the 2012 transit there is not a chance to observe this phenomenon until 2117 while the more common sweep of a total solar eclipse creates one of the most dramatic and awe inspiring events of nature. Though it may have once been a source of consternation or dread solar eclipses now lead thousands of amateur astronomers and eclipse chasers to travel the globe in order to experience the dramatic view under totality. These phenomena are among the most spectacular available to observers and are given their full due in Westfall and Sheehan's comprehensive study Shadow of the Sun Kreitzer, Laura Kreitzer, 2010-02. Gabriella's past is a mystery but that never stopped her from achieving her goals. As a supernatural specialist and far more intelligent than anyone her age she has always been ignored by her peers. Because of the isolation she has always felt she put her life and soul into her job. Being a supernatural specialist hasn't given her the divine intervention she always longed for until one day a shipment arrives from Italy containing three dead bodies with an uncanny ability to regenerate. Gabriella is frightened and intrigued but not as scared as she becomes when a dark creature attacks her. As the bodies come back to life the plot takes an unexpected twist that you won't see coming. The supernatural world only begins to unfold before her as angels appear her dreams start to haunt her and the very past she has forgotten comes back with startling clarity. Romance blooms escape plans are made an assassin is out to kill her and death is only around the corner. But what is more terrifying than all of it is the fact she is the chosen one the Illuminator the one who will save them all.
