Hunger for the Word Larry Hollar, 2004 Hunger for the Word provides weekly reflections on the lectionary readings for Year B from the standpoint of a concern for hunger and justice Drawing on the insights and stories of pastors professors and other theologically grounded people who are active in anti hunger advocacy through Bread for the World Hunger for the Word explores the scriptural witness with an openness to seeing how God's Word can nourish us in the struggle to feed the hungry An exposition of the New Testament [from An exposition on the Old and New Testament] with a preface by C.H. Spurgeon Matthew Henry, 1886 A Christian Utopia Stephen J. Gaudet, 2017-01-26

In the first century of the Common Era the Romans could boast of being the most pious society in the known world. They possessed a highly structured societal organization with a well defined hierarchy where everyone knew their place and the personal and interpersonal duties associated therewith. It was understood that their success was due in large part to maintaining a relationship with the gods. Yet at the same time social inequality and lack of justice for its members was ubiquitous and merely part of the fabric of that society. Into this milieu steps Saul of Tarsus later known as the Apostle Paul. Based upon the authentic corpus of Paul a new utopian society was envisaged a society based on equality and justice for all not just for the elite. This eschatological community is in sharp contrast with Imperial Rome. Following the death of Paul writers invoking Paul's authority by claiming that their texts were authored by the apostle himself continued writing letters to various Christian communities. However their texts differed in significant ways from Paul's vision. Yet these corrupted texts have survived and influenced the development of Christianity for two millennia. It is imperative to retrieve the true vision of Paul for a world in serious need of that eschatological vision.

The Works of Bishop Butler Joseph Butler, 2006. The complete works of Joseph Butler newly edited with an introduction notes glossary and an analytic index. This edition of Bishop Joseph Butler's 1692-1752 complete works is the first newly edited version to appear in a century and is the only one to include a single analytic index to the whole works. The editor's introduction presents Butler's ethics and philosophy of religion as a single comprehensive system of pastoral philosophy and surveys the vast influence Butler exerted especially in the nineteenth century. Included here are all fifteen published sermons from Butler's tenure as Preacher at the Rolls Chapel the only sermons in English routinely studied by secular ethicists to this day six additional sermons on the great public institutions his Charge to the Clergy at Durham controversial in its day for its defense of external religion his youthful letters sent anonymously to Samuel Clarke and the complete text of his Analogy of Religion an apologetic tour de force including the famous introduction on probability as the guide to life the analogical defense of immortality free will and the moral order of nature as well as his famous rebuttal of deism and his dissertations on virtue and on personal identity. Butler's work is among the monuments of classical Anglican theology. He is a major source for work in ethical theory and philosophy of religion as well as for the background of Victorian literature. David E. White teaches philosophy at St John Fisher College and is an officer in the New York State Philosophical Association.
