Childs, 2009 Robin Law represents the best of the generation that emerged during one of the most eventful and exciting periods in African history and historiography. This book offers an assessment of his scholarship most notably as an historian of Africa through explorations of his work in pre colonial West African history his methodological approaches to African history his scholarship on transatlantic slavery in particular and his work on diasporic topics and the study of changing identities produced by Atlantic slavery. The book supplies an ongoing dialogue with the waves of scholarship stimulated by the work of Robin Law by a remarkable cast of scholars who occupy the leading roles in their areas of specialization.

Material progress has been slow and painful for most people. Akwasi Osei's study a reinterpretation of over forty years of Ghanaian politics shows that ideological differences notwithstanding the successive regimes have adopted remarkably similar policies. They have been constrained by the nature of the Ghanaian state.
