Islam, 2016-04-14 Recently mass arsenic poisoning of groundwater has emerged as a disastrous public health concern in Bangladesh Apart from hundreds of deaths that have already been reported 85 million people are estimated to be at high risk of developing deadly arsenicosis symptoms The severity and extent of arsenicosis have obliged the government of Bangladesh to declare it the worst national disaster the country has ever faced and further to be deemed a state of emergency To fight this pervasive public health disaster the Bangladesh government has collaborated with the international and national NGOs to implement development projects to provide arsenic free water to rural villagers Drawing upon ethnographic research in rural Southwestern Bangladesh this book discusses arsenic contamination and its resultant health impact from a medical anthropological and anthropology of development perspectives It examines how the actual patients perceive explain manage and respond to this catastrophic public health outbreak and goes on to analyse how such lay perceptions shape health seeking behaviour of subjects in a medically plural context To make the issue more holistic this book further examines mitigation strategies and community participation in these projects Challenging approaches to development and development project management the book is of interest to policy makers practitioners and academics working in the field of development studies South Asian studies medical anthropology anthropology and sociology of development Insanity, Race and Colonialism L. Smith,2014-10-14 Despite emancipation from the evils of enslavement in 1838 most people of African origin in the British West Indian colonies continued to suffer serious material deprivation and racial oppression This book examines the management and treatment of those who became insane in the period until the Great War A New Language, A New World Nancy C. Carnevale,2010-10-01 An examination of Italian immigrants and their children in the early twentieth century A New Language A New World is the first full length historical case study of one immigrant group s experience with language in America Incorporating the interdisciplinary literature on language within a historical framework Nancy C Carnevale illustrates the complexity of the topic of language in American immigrant life By looking at language from the perspectives of both immigrants and the dominant culture as well as their interaction this book reveals the role of language in the formation of ethnic identity and the often coercive context within which immigrants must negotiate this process

The Oxford Handbook of the History of Medicine Mark Jackson,2011-08-25 In three sections the Oxford Handbook of the History of Medicine celebrates the richness and variety of medical history around the world It explore medical developments and trends in writing history according to period place and theme Food, Science, Policy and Regulation in the Twentieth Century Jim Phillips,David F. Smith,2013-04-15 This highly topical book offers a comprehensive study of the interaction of food politics and science over the last hundred years A range of important case studies from pasteurisation in Britain to the E coli outbreak offers new material for those interested in science policy and the role of expertise in modern political culture

Asian Medicine and Globalization Joseph S. Alter,2013-03-26 Medical systems function in specific cultural contexts It is common to speak of the medicine of China Japan India and other nation states Yet almost all formalized medical systems claim universal applicability and thus are ready to cross the cultural boundaries that contain them There is a critical tension in theory and practice in the ways regional medical systems are conceptualized as nationalistic or inherently transnational This volume is concerned with questions and problems created by the friction between nationalism and transnationalism at a time when globalization has greatly complicated the notion of cultural political and economic boundedness Offering a range of perspectives the contributors address questions such as How do states concern themselves with the modernization of traditional medicine How does the global hegemony of science enable the nationalist articulation of alternative medicine How do global discourses of science and new age spirituality facilitate the transnationalization of Asian medicine As more and more Asian medical practices cross boundaries into Western culture through the popularity of yoga and herbalism and as Western medicine finds its way east these systems of meaning become inextricably interrelated These essays consider the larger implications of transmissions between cultures Racializing Humankind: Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Practices of 'Race' and Racism Julian T. D. Gärtner,Malin Wilckens,2022-02-14 Debates on historical and contemporary racism have recently become the subject of increasing public interest The Black Lives Matter movement as well as the Covid 19 pandemic have underlined the importance and urgent necessity of examining racism in society from a multidisciplinary angle The many facets of racism in the past and present also challenge the way we deal with history historical culture in a globalized world Rather than focusing on the history of ideas and its discursive development this volume will focus on the practices of actors It examines how and which practices especially practices of comparing are constitutive in the construction of race and manifestations of racism This edited volume brings together interdisciplinary contributions from history sociology political science American studies literary studies and media studies An important focus lies on the social asymmetries created by racialization including inequalities and violence The chapters foreground historical and contemporary practices of racism and discuss their appearance in different epochs and locations

Biofictions Josie Gill, 2020-02-20 This book is open access and available on www.bloomsburycollections.com It is funded by Knowledge Unlatched Winner of the 2020 British Society for Literature and Science book prize In this important interdisciplinary study Josie Gill explores how the contemporary novel has drawn upon and intervened in debates about race in late 20th and 21st century genetic science Reading works by leading contemporary writers including Zadie Smith Kazuo Ishiguro Octavia Butler and Colson Whitehead Biofictions demonstrates how ideas of race are produced at the intersection of science and fiction which together create the stories about identity racism ancestry and kinship which characterize our understanding of race today By highlighting the role of narrative in the formation of racial ideas in science this book calls into question the apparent anti racism of contemporary genetics which functions narratively rather than factually or objectively within the racialized contexts in which it is embedded In so doing Biofictions compels us to rethink the long asked question of whether race is a biological fact or a fiction calling instead for a new understanding of the relationship between race science and fiction

Living with Epidemics in Colonial Bengal Arabinda Samanta, 2017-08-09 Making epidemics in colonial Bengal as its entry point and drawing heavily on social cultural and linguistic anthropology to understand the functions of health experiences distribution of illness prevention of sickness social relations of therapeutic intervention and employment of pluralistic medical systems the book interrogates the social construction of medical knowledge politics of science and the changing paradigm of relationship between health of the individual and the prerogatives of larger colonial economic formations Smallpox plague cholera and malaria which visited colonial Bengal with epidemic vengeance caught the people unaware killed them in thousands and changed the society and its demographic structures The book shows how sometimes through mutual adaptation but more often by cultural contestation people pulled on with their microbial fellow travellers and how illness became metaphor for the social dangers of improper code of conduct to be corrected only through personal expropriation of the sin committed or by community worship of the deity supposedly responsible for it As a result Western medical science was often relegated to the background and elaborate rites and rituals supposedly having curative values came to the forefront and were observed with much community fanfare Epidemics were also interpreted as outcome of politically incorrect moves made by the ruling power To right the wrongs people very often resorted to social protest The protest by the literati went sometimes muted when its members seem to be beneficiaries of the colonial government but it turned out to be all the more violent when the people who had no private axe to grind took up the cudgel to fight it out Society, Medicine and Politics in Colonial India Biswamoy Pati, Mark Harrison, 2018-02-13 The history of medicine and disease in colonial India remains a dynamic and innovative field of research covering many facets of health from government policy to local therapeutics This volume presents a selection of essays examining varied aspects of health and medicine as they relate to the political upheavals of the colonial era These range from the micro politics of medicine in princely states and institutions such as asylums through to the wider canvas of sanitary diplomacy as well as the meaning of modernity and modernization in the context of British rule The volume reflects the diversity of the field and showcases exciting new scholarship from early career researchers as well as more established scholars by bringing to light many locations and dimensions of medicine and modernity The essays have several common themes and together offer important insights into South Asia s experience of modernity in the years before independence Cutting across modernity and colonialism some of the key themes explored here include issues of race gender sexuality law mental health famine disease religion missionary medicine medical research tensions between and within different medical traditions and practices and India s place in an international context This book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of modern South Asian history sociology politics and anthropology as well as specialists in the history of medicine Reimagining Psychiatric Epidemiology in a Global Frame Anne Lovell, Gerald M. Oppenheimer, 2022 Psychiatric epidemiology like cancer heart disease or AIDS epidemiology increasingly dominates the bio politics of nations and of worldwide health campaigns like the Global Burden of Disease Yet this is the first book length history of psychiatric epidemiology arguably the oldest of epidemiological disciplines albeit the slowest to develop intellectually and institutionally The epidemiology of mental disorders and mental health differs radically from that of other diseases and health conditions in that it studies subjective states difficult to objectify or precisely define Despite these obstacles over many decades researchers governments and international organizations have continually attempted to measure mental states their distribution and presumed causes in the hope of informing public policy clinical treatment social reform and population management Since the nineteenth century epidemiology and earlier proto epidemiology in dissimilar contexts have served strikingly different purposes from census counts of the insane to imperialist and racist psychological profiles of subaltern groups to attempts to measure diagnostic entities in an entire nation We argue that these multiple historical paths resulted not in a uniform field based on common paradigms as was the case for cardio vascular and cancer epidemiology but in a plurality of psychiatric epidemiologies driven by different intellectual questions reformist ideals national cultures and social control objectives Diversity and Division in Medicine Anne Digby, 2006 This is an innovative investigation of pluralism in health care Using both extensive archival material and oral histories it examines relationships between indigenous healing missionary medicine and western biomedicine The book includes the different regions within South Africa although focusing in most detail on the Cape the earliest area of white settlement In a wide ranging survey the division in medicine between western and indigenous medicine is analysed through an exploration of the evolving practices of healers missionaries doctors and nurses The book considers the extent to which there was a strategic crossing of boundaries in the construction of hybrid practices by these practitioners and the extent to which patients pursued health by sampling diverse care options Starting with missionary penetration during the early nineteenth century the volume outlines interventions by the colonial state in medicine and public health and the continued resilience of indigenous healing in the face of this The book ends by relating past to present in scrutinising the legacy of historical structures including those of the apartheid state for current health care and in briefly discussing the huge challenges that the HIV Aids pandemic poses in impacting on them The book thus provides an inclusive history of medicine for the New South Africa

Memory, Anniversaries and Mental Health in International Historical Perspective Rebecca Wynter, Jennifer Wallis, Rob Ellis, 2023-07-19 This book is the first to explore memory misremembering forgetting and anniversaries in the history of psychiatry and mental health It challenges simplistic representations of the callous nature of mental health care in the past while at the same time eschewing a celebratory and uncritical marking of anniversaries and individuals Asking critical questions of the early Whiggish histories of mental health care the book problematizes the idea of a shared professional and institutional history and the abiding faith placed in the reform of medicine administration and even patients It contends that much post 1800 legislation drafted to ensure reform acted to preserve beliefs about the bad old days and a brighter future in the state memories of imperial powers which in turn exported these notions around the world Conversely the collection demonstrates the variety of remembering and forgetting building on recent interest in the ideological and cultural linkages between past and present in international psychiatric practice In this way it seeks to trace the pathways of memory exploring the direction of travel and the perpetuation remodeling and uprooting of recollection Chapter The New Socialist Citizen and Forgetting Authoritarianism Psychiatry Psychoanalysis and Revolution in Socialist Yugoslavia is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com

Nationalizing the Body Projit Bihari Mukharji, 2011-01-01 This book seeks to move emphasis away from the over riding importance given to the state in existing studies of western medicine in India and locates medical practice within its cultural social and professional milieus Based on Bengali doctors writings this book examines how various medical problems challenges and debates were understood and interpreted within overlapping contexts of social identities and politics on the one hand and their function within a largely unregulated medical market on the other

The Social History of Health and Medicine in Colonial India Biswamoy Pati, Mark Harrison, 2008-11-19 This book analyzes the diverse facets of the social history of health and medicine in colonial India It explores a unique set of themes that capture the diversities of India such as public health medical institutions mental illness and the politics and economics of colonialism Based on inter disciplinary research the contributions offer valuable insight into topics that have recently received increased scholarly attention including the use of opiates and the role of advertising in driving medical markets The contributors both established and emerging scholars in the field incorporate sources ranging from palm leaf manuscripts to archival materials This book will be of interest to scholars of history especially the history of medicine and the history of colonialism and imperialism sociology social anthropology cultural theory and South Asian Studies as well as to health workers and NGOs

Financing Medicine Martin Gorsky, Sally Sheard, 2006-10-03 Financing Medicine brings together a collection of essays dealing with the financing of medical care in Britain since the mid eighteenth century with a view to addressing two major issues Why did the funding of the British health system develop in the way it did What were the ramifications of these arrangements for the nature and extent of health care before the NHS The book also goes on to explore the lessons and legacies of the past which bear upon developments under the NHS The contributors to this volume provide a sustained and detailed examination of the model of health care which preceded the NHS an organization whose distinctive features hold such fascination for the scholars of health systems and their insights illuminate current debates on the future of the NHS For students and scholars of the history of medicine this will prove essential reading
