Racial And Ethnic Differences In The Health Of Older Americans:

Racial and Ethnic Differences in the Health of Older Americans National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 1997-09-23 Older Americans even the oldest can now expect to live years longer than those who reached the same ages even a few decades ago Although survival has improved for all racial and ethnic groups strong differences persist both in life expectancy and in the causes of disability and death at older ages This book examines trends in mortality rates and selected causes of disability cardiovascular disease dementia for older people of different racial and ethnic groups The determinants of these trends and differences are also investigated including differences in access to health care and experiences in early life diet health behaviors genetic background social class wealth and income Groups often neglected in analyses of national data such as the elderly Hispanic and Asian Americans of different origin and immigrant generations are compared The volume provides understanding of research bearing on the health status and survival of the fastest growing segment of the American population Understanding Racial and Ethnic Differences in Health in Late Life National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Panel on Race, Ethnicity, and Health in Later Life, 2004-09-08 As the population of older Americans grows it is becoming more racially and ethnically diverse Differences in health by racial and ethnic status could be increasingly consequential for health policy and programs Such differences are not simply a matter of education or ability to pay for health care For instance Asian Americans and Hispanics appear to be in better health on a number of indicators than White Americans despite on average lower socioeconomic status The reasons are complex including possible roles for such factors as selective migration risk behaviors exposure to various stressors patient attitudes and geographic variation in health care This volume produced by a multidisciplinary panel considers such possible explanations for racial and ethnic health differentials within an integrated framework It provides a concise summary of available research and lays out a research agenda to address the many uncertainties in current knowledge It recommends for instance looking at health differentials across the life course and deciphering the links between factors presumably producing differentials and biopsychosocial mechanisms that lead to impaired health Social Work Practice with Ethnically and Racially Diverse Nursing Home Residents and Their Families Patricia Kolb, 2007-07-06 The first of its kind this volume is a critical companion for service providers who work with African American American Indian Chinese Italian Japanese Korean Mexican American and Puerto Rican elders and their families in nursing homes and other care settings These groups are likely to use nursing homes in larger numbers as cultural shifts such as higher divorce rates and increased outside of home employment for females transform traditional family dynamics Contributors are experience social workers and most belong to the specific ethnic or racial group that is the focus of their chapter and have also provided nursing home services to this group They provide a wealth of demographic historical cultural and practice information crucial to understanding and providing services to older adults and their families Many nursing home residents experience physical and or cognitive debilitation and increased dependence as older adults and cultural and situational differences create variations in how these changes are experienced and addressed In this volume contributors touch upon all of these areas as well as ways in which prejudice and discrimination have shaped intergenerational and other relationships for members of specific ethnic and racial groups Little has been written about the characteristics needs and experiences of racially and ethnically diverse nursing home residents and their families and requirements for culturally competent social work practice Written by social workers for social workers and other service providers this book fills a gap in a rapidly growing area of gerontological service and provides a truly comprehensive examination of cultural and practice phenomena

The New Politics of Old Age Policy Robert B. Hudson, 2005 The successor to Robert Hudson's The Future of Age Based Public Policy this volume offers a variety of perspectives on these policy issues that directly effect America's aging population particularly the relative merits of using chronological age to determine eligibility for government programs

Critical Perspectives on Racial and Ethnic Differences in Health in Late Life National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, Panel on Race, Ethnicity, and Health in Later Life, 2004-10-16 In their later years Americans of different racial and ethnic backgrounds are not in equally good or equally poor health There is wide variation but on average older Whites are healthier than older Blacks and tend to outlive them But Whites tend to be in poorer health than Hispanics and Asian Americans This volume documents the differentials and considers possible explanations Selection processes play a role selective migration for instance or selective survival to advanced ages Health differentials originate early in life possibly even before birth and are affected by events and experiences throughout the life course Differences in socioeconomic status risk behavior social relations and health care all play a role Separate chapters consider the contribution of such factors and the biopsychosocial mechanisms that link them to health This volume provides the empirical evidence for the research agenda provided in the separate report of the Panel on Race Ethnicity and Health in Later Life

Health at Older Ages David M. Cutler, David A. Wise, 2009-05-15 Americans are living longer and staying healthier longer than ever before Despite the rapid disappearance of pensions and health care benefits for retirees older people are healthier and better off than they were twenty years ago In Health at Older Ages a distinguished team of economists analyzes the foundations of disability decline quantifies this phenomenon in economic terms and proposes what might be done to accelerate future improvements in the health of our most elderly populations This breakthrough volume argues that educational attainment high socioeconomic status an older retirement age and accessible medical care have improved the health and quality of life of seniors Along the way it outlines the economic benefits of disability decline such as an increased rate of seniors in the workplace relief for the healthcare system and care giving families and reduced medical expenses for the elderly themselves Health at Older Ages will be an essential contribution to the debate about meeting the medical needs of an aging nation Handbook of Minority Aging Tamara A. Baker, Keith E. Whitfield, 2014 The array of topics covered is amazing making this book a valuable significant resource for many disciplines This multidisciplinary review of the literature on minority aging presents the scholarship related to public health and social behavioral and biological concerns of aged minorities like no other publication Graduate students will certainly be well served by this book as would faculty teaching aging at both undergraduate and graduate levels Highly recommended Choice Current Reviews for Academic Libraries while practitioners of gerontology family medicine and any professional involved in the care of the elderly will find some practical guidance in the second part of the book it will really earn a place on the bookshelf of anyone and everyone with an interest in US sociology and the development of public policy for the elderly With the general aging of the population and the book's accentuation of current issues this outstanding review will become an indispensable tool

Healthy Aging Research This text provides up to date multidisciplinary and comprehensive information about aging among diverse racial and ethnic populations in the United States It is the only book to focus on paramount public health issues as they relate to older minority Americans and addresses social behavioral and biological concerns for this population The text distills the most important advances in the science of minority aging and incorporates the evidence of scholars in gerontology anthropology psychology public health sociology social work biology medicine and nursing Additionally the book incorporates the work of both established and emerging scholars to provide the broadest possible knowledge base on the needs of and concerns for this rapidly growing population Chapters focus on subject areas that are recognized as being critical in understanding the well being of minority elders These include sociology Medicare SES work and retirement social networks context neighborhood ethnography gender demographics psychology cognition stress mental health personality sexuality religion neuroscience discrimination medicine nursing public health mortality and morbidity disability health disparities long term care genetics dietary issues health interventions physical functioning social work caregiving housing social services end of life care and many other topics The book focuses on the needs of four major ethnic groups Asian Pacific Islander Hispanic Latino African American and Native American

Key Features Provides current comprehensive information about minority aging through a multidisciplinary lens Integrates information from scholars in gerontology anthropology psychology public health sociology social work biology medicine and nursing Emphasizes the principal public health issues concerning minority elders Offers one stop shopping regarding the development of a substantial knowledge base about minority aging Includes recent progressive research pertaining to the social cultural psychological and health needs of elderly minority adults in the US Future Directions for the Demography of Aging National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 2018-07-21 Almost 25 years have passed since the Demography of Aging 1994 was published by the National Research Council Future Directions for the Demography of Aging is in many ways the successor to that original volume The Division of Behavioral and Social Research at the National Institute on Aging NIA asked the National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine to produce an authoritative guide to new directions in demography of aging The papers published in this report were originally presented and discussed at a public workshop held in Washington D C August 17 18 2017 The workshop discussion made evident that major new advances had been made in the last two decades but also that new trends and research directions have emerged that call for innovative conceptual design and measurement approaches The report reviews these recent trends and also discusses future directions for research on a range of topics that are central to current research in the demography of aging Looking back over the past two decades of demography of aging research shows remarkable advances in our understanding of the health and well being of the older population Equally exciting is that this report sets the stage for the next two decades of innovative research a period of rapid growth in the older American population

Learning Race and Ethnicity Anna Everett, 2008 An exploration of how issues of race and ethnicity play out in a digital media landscape that includes MySpace post 9 11 politics MMOGs Internet music distribution and the digital divide It may have been true once that as the famous cartoon of the 1990s put it Nobody knows you're a dog on the Internet and that as an MCI commercial of that era declared on the Internet there is no race gender or infirmity but today with the development of web cams digital photography cell phone cameras streaming video and social networking sites this notion seems quaintly idealistic This volume takes up issues of race and ethnicity in the new digital media landscape The contributors address this topic still difficult to engage honestly clearly empathetically and with informed understanding in twenty first century America with the goal of pushing consideration of a vexing but important subject from margin to center Learning Race and Ethnicity explores the intersection of race and ethnicity with post 9 11 politics online hate speech practices and digital youth and media cultures It examines universal access and the racial and ethnic digital divide from the perspective of digital media learning and youth The chapters treat such subjects as racial identity in the computer mediated public sphere minority technology innovators new methods of music distribution digital artist Judy Baca's work with youth Native American digital media literacy and minority youth technology access and the pervasiveness of online health information Contributors Ambar Basu Graham D Bodie Dara N Byrne Jessie Daniels Mohan J Dutta Raiford Guins Guisela Latorre Antonio Lopez Chela Sandoval Tyrone D Taborn Douglas Thomas
