Rationality In Action Jean Nicod Lectures:

Rationality in Action John R. Searle, 2003-01-24 The study of rationality and practical reason or rationality in action has been central to Western intellectual culture In this invigorating book John Searle lays out six claims of what he calls the Classical Model of rationality and shows why they are false He then presents an alternative theory of the role of rationality in thought and action A central point of Searle's theory is that only irrational actions are directly caused by beliefs and desires for example the actions of a person in the grip of an obsession or addiction In most cases of rational action there is a gap between the motivating desire and the actual decision making The traditional name for this gap is freedom of the will According to Searle all rational activity presupposes free will For rationality is possible only where one has a choice among various rational as well as irrational options Unlike many philosophical tracts Rationality in Action invites the reader to apply the author's ideas to everyday life Searle shows for example that contrary to the traditional philosophical view weakness of will is very common He also points out the absurdity of the claim that rational decision making always starts from a consistent set of desires Rational decision making he argues is often about choosing between conflicting reasons for action In fact humans are distinguished by their ability to be rationally motivated by desire independent reasons for action Extending his theory of rationality to the self Searle shows how rational deliberation presupposes an irreducible notion of the self He also reveals the idea of free will to be essentially a thesis of how the brain works

The Reshaped Mind Lace Marie Williams-Tinajero, 2010-11-11 Employing John R Searle's categories of language and mind this book analyzes five NT texts from a speech act perspective what certain NT writers and characters asserted and believed concerning the effects of Christ's blood at the literal and metaphorical levels

Varieties of Meaning Ruth Garrett Millikan, 2004 How the various things that are said to have meaning purpose natural signs linguistic signs perceptions and thoughts are related to one another

Political Conflict and Political Preferences Claudia Landwehr, 2009-04-01 What is the effect of deliberation on political actors and when can we expect it to be successful Are mutual understanding and consensus realistic results of political decision making processes or is compromise the most we can hope for This book addresses what appear to be blind spots in theories of deliberative democracy the conceptual and empirical relationship between communication and political preferences and the institutional preconditions for preference change and co ordination It proposes a model of preference transformation through communication and develops a typology of modes of political interaction that distinguishes discussion deliberation debate and bargaining This serves as a framework for the analysis of a fundamental and highly polarising conflict the German decision over the import of embryonic stem cells Analysis of communicative interaction in different forums shows how a well justified and widely accepted compromise was achieved in a conflict that had appeared irresolvable in moral terms and irreducible in terms of interest The Evolved Apprentice Kim Sterelny,2014-08-29 A new theory of the evolution of human cognition and human social life that emphasizes the role of information sharing across generations Over the last three million years or so our lineage has diverged sharply from those of our great ape relatives Change has been rapid in evolutionary terms and pervasive Morphology life history social life sexual behavior and foraging patterns have all shifted sharply away from those of the other great apes In The Evolved Apprentice Kim Sterelny argues that the divergence stems from the fact that humans gradually came to enrich the learning environment of the next generation Humans came to cooperate in sharing information and to cooperate ecologically and reproductively as well and these changes initiated positive feedback loops that drove us further from other great apes Sterelny develops a new theory of the evolution of human cognition and human social life that emphasizes the gradual evolution of information sharing practices across generations and how these practices transformed human minds and social lives Sterelny proposes that humans developed a new form of ecological interaction with their environment cooperative foraging The ability to cope with the immense variety of human ancestral environments and social forms he argues depended not just on adapted minds but also on adapted developmental environments Reorienting Economics Tony Lawson,2012-08-21 Contemporary economics is characterized by a mismatch between its methods of analysis and the nature of the world it seeks to interpret Despite regular economic crises and ongoing critique of the discipline the drift from political economy into applied mathematics appears to continue unabated In this book Tony Lawson advocates a relinquent of economics with social reality In analyzing mainstream economists misplaced universality the author places ontology at the heart of a reoriented future in which economics is integrated within the wider human and social sciences Environmental Philosophy Hugh P. McDonald,2014-05-10 Environmental Philosophy A Revaluation of Cosmopolitan Ethics from an Ecocentric Standpoint calls for a new approach to ethics Starting from the necessity for all life of air water and food the book revalues the relation of ethics and environmentalism Using insights of the environmental ethicists environmental ethics becomes the model for ethics as a whole Humans are part of a larger environment Cosmopolitanism should be revised in accord with environmental ethics The book applies a new theory of values to the relation of value and obligation and of duty rights and virtue to accord with ecocentrism The book also critically evaluates Utilitarianism and the self interest theory
