Rd Decisions Strategy Policy And Disclosure:

A Look at Zambia's Road Financing Strategies: The Impact of Incongruent Policies and Budgets Yohane Tembo, 2015

There are various reasons why the road asset in Zambia has been deteriorating over the past five decades since independence. Much effort to restore the road asset to its original value and keep it maintained in a good and safe condition was initiated in mid 1990s with the launch of the Road Sector Investment Plan Phase I which was immediately followed by the launch of a Phase II to run from 2003 to 2013. It is my appreciation that many diagnostic studies into road financing strategies which could have led to inefficient road asset management in Zambia have been undertaken and various solutions tendered. The author takes cognizance that resource mobilization for road construction and maintenance and subsequent allocation to respective road programs can often be problematic for an emerging country like Zambia. It has the potential to lead to inefficiencies in road asset management as has evidently been demonstrated in the declining road asset value over time. The political as well as the economic landscape plays a vital role in resource mobilization and allocation strategies as much as the institutional and the legal framework do. The failure to clear the backlog of maintenance which normally results largely from deferment of scheduled maintenance due to insufficient annual budgetary allocation to the road sector maintenance programs has led to the significant deterioration in road network condition. Exorbitant road construction costs have posed additional challenges to the fiscus thereby constraining both the quantity and quality of road infrastructure that could be constructed and maintained at any given time. Recent policy drives have been categorical in their preference of new road construction aimed at linking Zambia over road maintenance which plays a pivotal role in road asset management. This creates a perception that policy pronouncements are at variance to policy documents which promote sustainable economic development through efficient road investments and could be seen as being paradoxical in that the actual financing strategies are skewed towards road construction a recipe of comfort for the next election challenge due to increased visibility on the ground rather than to maintenance as an astute and effective way of managing the road asset. The difficulty of establishing congruence between government pronouncements and actual road business strategies in the implementing agencies has over the years posed challenges to the fiscal policy implementation. Consequently this has often led to serious budget overruns due firstly to unplanned expenditure and secondly variations due to scope increase resulting from project implementation without having prior designs. This has led to high operating inefficiencies of existing roads due to the high level of pavement degradation with the eventual effect of higher vehicle operating costs longer travel times driver and passenger discomfort and ultimately higher agency pavement replacement costs. The damage caused to the economy is apparent in all this. The author carried out an analysis of road financing strategies in Zambia taking a special look into the past decade with the view to ascertaining the extent to which roads budgets have been employed to fund new construction and maintenance. This was necessary to establish whether there was a mismatch in allocation of resources for roads in terms of needs and policy in which new road construction is highly favored in preference to maintenance It was hoped that if the mismatch existed it would espouse some paradoxes which existed between the road asset management policies and actual strategies

Macroprudential Regulatory Policies: The New Road To Financial Stability? Douglas D Evanoff, George G Kaufman, Stijn Claessens, Laura E Kodres, 2011-11-02 This book is a collection of papers presented in the conference held at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in September 2010 that examines the role of macroprudential regulation in the financial industry Shocked by the experience of the last few years many argue that the more traditional microprudential regulatory tools are inadequate to create a safe and stable financial system The microprudential paradigm relies on the presumption that the financial system as a whole can be made safe by ensuring individual financial institutions are made safe This ignores interconnections and externalities whereby the actions of one financial institution or events in financial markets can lead to spillover effects that adversely affect general market conditions other financial institutions and ultimately the economy as a whole Instead it is argued there is a need for both microprudential approaches to regulate individual institutions and macroprudential approaches to manage the overall financial system risks Conference participants discussed macroprudential regulation and related issues including What are the theoretical motivations for macroprudential regulation How would it interact with other regulatory and macroeconomic policies especially monetary policy What would be the specific macroprudential tools Who should have control over the macroprudential tools How should a macroprudential regulator be structured Where should it be housed How can macroprudential policies be structured across national borders What role if any can market discipline play in supporting macroprudential objectives Concentrating on public policy issues the conference featured keynote addresses by influential past and present public policy figures including Paul Volcker Chairman of the US President's Economic Recovery Advisory Board and former Chairman of the Federal Reserve System Tommaso Padoa Schioppa Chairman Promontory Financial Group Europe and Former Chairman of the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision Jaime Caruana General Manager of the Bank for International Settlements and Former Chairman of the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision and Charles Taylor Director of the Pew Charitable Trust Financial Reform Project

Schmidt, 2025 The United States has the most robust nonprofit sector in the world It is guided by rules that have enabled countless nonprofits to achieve their missions These rules have also helped shape the sector into a remarkable expression of the disparate and collective aspirations that Americans hold both for their communities and the planet However the rules governing nonprofits are confusing for anyone who is not trained as a lawyer They are written in negative and convoluted language that stresses what is forbidden and they tend to paralyze those who are trying to change the status quo Nonprofit leaders need and deserve clear rules and regulations that tell them what they can and should do to achieve their missions A reframing of these rules does more than explain however Once we look at nonprofit rules from a different lens we can think more clearly about how these laws can be more responsive to the changing needs of the nonprofit sector and of our society      Civil Participation in Decision
