Input Processing is a theoretical framework on which the pedagogical paradigm called Processing Instruction is predicated. In this book new data on the acquisition of Italian and Modern Standard Arabic are presented and analyzed within this framework. Each study in the book explores how input processing strategies affect the acquisition of a particular linguistic feature and/or structure in the two languages. The studies use both offline e.g. sentence and discourse level tasks and online tests e.g. eye tracking to measure the effects of this instructional training Processing Instruction Bill VanPatten, 2004-05-20

This book provides a comprehensive collection of empirical studies and critical commentary that bring Processing Instruction up to date but also lay the ground work for continued research Practices in Intercultural Language Teaching and Learning Michael Joseph Ennis, Catherine Elizabeth Riley, 2018-06-11

This volume responds to the growing need for intercultural approaches to teaching and learning languages. The central premise is that the aim of intercultural language teaching and learning is to foster effective communication and effective learning in spaces between cultures in order to prepare learners for global citizenship but that the corresponding models and methods must emerge from the bottom up in order to meet the needs of each unique context. The book offers a collection of successful experiences rooted in praxis. It shares the activities, methods, models and approaches which have been developed within specific contexts. Thus it offers an example of how to adopt an intercultural perspective in teaching and learning. The editors and contributors share the conviction that the experiences detailed here can be informative to the realities of all readers in the same way that their own practices have been informed by others Applied Language Learning, 2010 Key Questions in Language Teaching Alessandro G. Benati, 2020-02-20

Grammar Acquisition and Processing Instruction Alessandro Benati, James F. Lee, 2008-10-03

Research on Processing Instruction has so far investigated the primary effects of Processing Instruction. In this book the results of a series of experimental studies investigating possible secondary and cumulative effects of Processing Instruction on the acquisition of French Italian and English as a second language will be presented The results of the three experiments have demonstrated that Processing Instruction not only provides learners the direct or primary benefit of learning to process and produce the morphological form on which they received instruction but also a secondary benefit in that they transferred that training to processing and producing another morphological form on which they had received no instruction
