Theological

Anthropology and the Great Literary Genres Michael P. Jensen, 2019-08-23 The storytelling impulse lies very deep within human cultures indeed it is fundamental to the very concept of human culture itself What then is humankind according to the great story types of tragedy epic and comedy What do each of these genres say about us and what transcends us Building on critical discussions of the great genres of the Western literary tradition Michael P Jensen argues that each of these genres contains a theo anthropology a theological understanding of the human creature He then shows how questions of identity purpose and destiny are addressed within each genre concluding that human existence is a storied nature shaped by the various literary forms that have fostered human cultural imagination These genres provide crucial keys to vital anthropological and theological questions when put in conversation with Christian theology as Jensen shows the Christian story the gospel shares many observations about the human condition with the great genres but offers a different sense of ending

Texts and Violence in the Roman World Monica R. Gale, J. H. D. Scourfield, 2018-04-05 From the bites and scratches of lovers and the threat of flogging that hangs over the comic slave to murder rape dismemberment and crucifixion violence is everywhere in Latin literature The contributors to this volume explore the manifold ways in which violence is constructed and represented in Latin poetry and prose from Plautus to Prudentius examining the interrelations between violence language power and gender and the narrative rhetorical and ideological functions of such depictions across the generic spectrum How does violence contribute to the pleasure of the text Do depictions of violence always reinforce status hierarchies or can they provoke a reassessment of normative value systems Is the reader necessarily complicit with authorial constructions of violence These are pressing questions both for ancient literature and for film and other modern media and this volume will be of interest to scholars and students of cultural studies as well as of the ancient world

Heroes and Anti-heroes in Medieval Romance Neil Cartlidge, 2012 Investigations into the heroic or not behaviour of the protagonists of medieval romance Medieval romances so insistently celebrate the triumphs of heroes and the discomfiture of villains that they discourage recognition of just how morally ambiguous antisocial or even downright sinister their protagonists can be and correspondingly of just how admirable or impressive their defeated opponents often are This tension between the heroic and the antiheroic makes a major contribution to the dramatic complexity of medieval romance but it is not an aspect of the genre that has been frequently discussed up until now Focusing on fourteen distinct characters and character types in medieval narrative this book illustrates the range of different ways in which the imaginative power and appeal of romance texts often depend on contradictions implicit in the very ideal of heroism Dr Neil Cartlidge is Lecturer in English at the University of Durham Contributors Neil Cartlidge Penny Eley David Ashurst Meg Lamont Laura Ashe Judith Weiss Gareth Griffith Kate McClune Nancy Mason Bradbury Ad Putter Robert Rouse Siobhain Bly Calkin James Wade Stephanie Vierick Gibbs Kamath
