Reading Pictures What We Think About When We Look At Art:

Reading Pictures Alberto Manguel, 2002 Writing and Seeing Rui Manuel G. de Carvalho Homem, Maria de Fátima Lambert, 2006 The essays in this volume are informed by a variety of theoretical assumptions and of critical methodologies but they all share an interest in the intersections of word and image in a variety of media This unifying rationale secures the present collection's central position in the current critical context defined as it predominantly is by ways of reading that are based on a relational nexus The intertextual the intermedial the intersemiotic are indeed foregrounded and combined in these essays conceptually as much as in the critical practices favoured by the various contributions Studies of literature in its relation to pictorial genres enjoy a relative prominence in the volume but the range of media and of approaches considered is broad enough to include photography film video television comic strips animated film public art material culture The backgrounds of contributors are likewise diverse culturally academically linguistically The volume combines contributions by prominent scholars and critics with essays by younger scholars from a variety of backgrounds The resulting plurality of perspective is indeed a source of new insights into the relations between writing and seeing and it contributes to making this collection an exciting new contribution to word and image studies Autobiographical Comics Elisabeth El Refaie, 2012-10-10 A troubled childhood in Iran Living with a disability Grieving for a dead child Over the last forty years the comic book has become an increasingly popular way of telling personal stories of considerable complexity and depth In Autobiographical Comics Life Writing in Pictures Elisabeth El Refaie offers a long overdue assessment of the key conventions formal properties and narrative patterns of this fascinating genre The book considers eighty five works of North American and European provenance works that cover a broad range of subject matters and employ many different artistic styles Drawing on concepts from several disciplinary fields including semiotics literary and narrative theory art history and psychology El Refaie shows that the traditions and formal features of comics provide new possibilities for autobiographical storytelling For example the requirement to produce multiple drawn versions of one's self necessarily involves an intense engagement with physical aspects of identity as well as with the cultural models that underpin body image The comics medium also offers memoirists unique ways of representing their experience of time their memories of past events and their hopes and dreams for the future Furthermore autobiographical comics creators are able to draw on the close association in contemporary Western culture between seeing and believing in order to persuade readers of the authentic nature of their stories Danto and His Critics Mark Rollins, 2012-02-27 Updated and revised the Second Edition of Danto and His Critics presents a series of essays by leading Danto scholars who offer their critical assessment of the influential works and ideas of Arthur C Danto the Johnsonian Professor Emeritus in the Department of Philosophy at Columbia University and long time art critic for The Nation Reflects Danto's revisions in his theory of art reworking his views in ways that have not been systematically addressed elsewhere Features essays that critically assess the changes in Danto's thoughts and locate Danto's revised theory in the larger context of his work and of aesthetics generally. Speaks in original ways to the relation of Danto's philosophy of art to his theory of mind. Connects and integrates Danto's ideas on the nature of knowledge, action, aesthetics, history and mind as well as his provocative thoughts on the philosophy of art for the reader.

Teaching Australian Literature Brenton Doecke, Larissa McLean Davies, Philip Mead, 2011. What role should Australian literature play in the school curriculum? What principles should guide our selection of Australian texts? To what extent should concepts of the nation and a national identity frame the study of Australian writing? What do we imagine Australian literature to be? How do English teachers go about engaging their students in reading Australian texts? This volume brings together teachers, teacher educators, creative writers and literary scholars in a joint inquiry that takes a fresh look at what it means to teach Australian literature. The immediate occasion for the publication of these essays is the implementation of The Australian Curriculum: English which several contributors subject to critical scrutiny. In doing so they question the way that literature teaching is currently being constructed by standards-based reforms not only in Australia but elsewhere. The essays assembled in this volume transcend the divisions that have sometimes marred debates about the place of Australian literature in the school curriculum. They all recognise the complexity of what secondary English teachers do in their efforts to engage young people in a rich and meaningful curriculum. They also highlight the need for both secondary and tertiary educators to cultivate an awareness of the cultural and intellectual traditions that mediate their professional practice and to encourage a critically responsive pedagogy.

create and see art in the present Exploring themes of gender identity and story telling in visual material culture this book forces a radical reassessment of how the ability to see makes us and our ancestors human as such it will interest lovers of both art and archaeology Illustrated with examples from around the world from the earliest art from hundreds of thousands of years ago to the contemporary art scene including street art and advertising Janik cogently argues that the human capacity for art which we share with our most ancient ancestors and cousins is rooted in our common neurophysiology The ways in which our brains allow us to see is a common heritage that shapes the creative process what changes according to time and place are the cultural contexts in which art is produced and consumed The book argues for an innovative understanding of art through the interplay between the way the human brain works and the culturally specific creation and interpretation of meaning making an important contribution to the debate on art archaeology
