Readings in Artificial Intelligence and Databases John Mylopoulos, Michael L. Brodie, 2014-06-28 The interaction of database and AI technologies is crucial to such applications as data mining active databases and knowledge based expert systems This volume collects the primary readings on the interactions actual and potential between these two fields The editors have chosen articles to balance significant early research and the best and most comprehensive articles from the 1980s An in depth introduction discusses basic research motivations giving a survey of the history concepts and terminology of the interaction Major themes approaches and results open issues and future directions are all discussed including the results of a major survey conducted by the editors of current work in industry and research labs Thirteen sections follow each with a short introduction Topics examined include semantic data models with emphasis on conceptual modeling techniques for databases and information systems and the integration of data model concepts in high level data languages definition and maintenance of integrity constraints in databases and knowledge bases natural language front ends object oriented database management systems implementation issues such as concurrency control and error recovery and representation of time and knowledge incompleteness from the viewpoints of databases logic programming and AI

Database and Expert Systems Applications Dimitris Karagiannis, 2013-11-11 The Database and Expert Systems Applications DEXA conferences are dedicated to providing an international forum for the presentation of applications in the database and expert systems field for the exchange of ideas and experiences and for defining requirements for the future systems in these fields After the very promising DEXA 90 in Vienna Austria we hope to have successfully established with this year's DEXA 91 a stage where scientists from diverse fields interested in application oriented research can present and discuss their work This year there was a total of more than 250 submitted papers from 28 different countries in all continents Only 98 of the papers could be accepted The collection of papers in these proceedings offers a cross section of the issues facing the area of databases and expert systems i e topics of basic research interest on one hand and questions occurring when developing applications on the other Major credit for the success of the conference goes to all of our colleagues who submitted papers for consideration and to those who have organized and chaired the panel sessions Many persons contributed numerous hours to organize this conference The names of most of them will appear on the following pages In particular we wish to thank the Organization Committee Chairmen Johann Gordesch A Min Tjoa and Roland Wagner who also helped establishing the program Special thanks also go to Gabriella Wagner and Anke Ruckert Dimitris Karagiannis General Conference Chairman Contents Conference Committee

Illustrated Database Reengineering and Interoperability T.Y. Cheung, J. Fong, B. Siu, 2012-12-06 Modern computing management systems and application programs are often designed as open systems In an open environment the users application programs serving similar purposes though possibly implemented using different hardware or software technologies can interact easily and properly with one other But it is a big challenge in research and development to provide the means for integrating these technologies and reengineering the new or existing management systems so as to make all of the relevant components interoperable In case of databases because of the variety in data models and theory the interoperability and reengineering issues become even more complex and crucial especially for companies heavily involved in data management With the rapid advances in networking and database modeling technology old issues may have to be reinvestigated and new issues come up constantly It is our hope that this year's workshop the sixth in a series of annual events can provide a timely forum for database researchers and practitioners to share their recent experience and results in various aspects of this fast developing field This series of workshops has been organized by the Hong Kong Computer Society and financially supported by many local industrial and business companies This year the Cooperative Research Centre for Open Systems Technology located in the Department of Computer Science City University of Hong Kong has joined the organization team and the list of financial sponsors

Information Systems Jan Chomicki, Gunter Saake, 2012-12-06 Time is ubiquitous in information systems Almost every enterprise faces the problem of its data becoming out of date However such data is often valuable so it should be archived and some means to access it should be provided Also some data may be inherently historical e.g. medical, cadastral or judicial records Temporal databases provide a uniform and systematic way of dealing with historical data Many languages have been proposed for temporal databases among others temporal logic Temporal logic combines abstract formal semantics with the amenability to efficient implementation This chapter shows how temporal logic can be used in temporal database applications Rather than presenting new results we report on recent developments and survey the field in a systematic way using a unified formal framework GHR94 Ch094 The handbook GHR94 is a comprehensive reference on mathematical foundations of temporal logic In this chapter we study how temporal logic is used as a query and integrity constraint language Consequently model theoretic notions particularly for model satisfaction are of primary interest Axiomatic systems and proof methods for temporal logic GHR94 have found so far relatively few applications in the context of information systems Moreover one needs to bear in mind that for the standard linearly ordered time domains temporal logic is not recursively axiomatizable GHR94 so recursive axiomatizations are by necessity incomplete Logic Programming and Databases Stefano Ceri, Georg

Gottlob, Letizia Tanca, 2012-12-06 The topic of logic programming and databases has gained increasing interest in recent years Several events have marked the rapid evolution of this field the selection by the Japanese Fifth Generation Project of Prolog and of the relational data model as the basis for the development of new machine architectures the focusing of research in database theory on logic queries and on recursive query processing and the pragmatic application oriented development of expert database systems and of knowledge base systems As a result an enormous amount of work has been produced in the recent literature coupled with the spontaneous growth of several advanced projects in this area The goal of this book is to present a systematic overview of a rapidly evolving discipline which is presently not described with the same approach in other books We intend to introduce students and researchers to this new discipline thus we use a plain tutorial style and complement the description of algorithms with examples and exercises We attempt to achieve a balance between theoretical foundations and technological issues thus we present a careful introduction to the new language Datalog but we also focus on the efficient interfacing of logic programming formalisms such as Prolog and Datalog with large databases

Web Data Mining and Applications in Business Intelligence and Counter-Terrorism Bhavani Thuraisingham,2003-06-26 The explosion of Web based data has created a demand among executives and technologists for methods to identify gather analyze and utilize data that may be of value to corporations and organizations The emergence of data mining and the larger field of Web mining has businesses lost within a confusing maze of mechanisms and strategies for obtaining information Advances in Database Systems J. Paredaens,L. Tenenbaum,2014-05-04 Advanced information technology is pervasive in any kind of human activity science business finance management and others and this is particularly true for database systems Both database theory and database applications constitute a very important part of the state of the art of computer science Meanwhile there is some discrepancy between different aspects of database activity Theoreticians are sometimes not much aware of the real needs of business and industry software specialists not always have the time or the opportunity to get acquainted with the most recent theoretical ideas and trends as well as with advanced prototypes arising from these ideas potential users often do not have the possibility of evaluating the theoretical foundations and the potential practical impact of different commercial products So the main goal of the course was to put together people involved in different aspects of database activity and to promote active exchange of ideas among them
