Maritime Boundary Disputes, Settlement Processes, and the Law of the Sea Seoung Yong Hong, Jon M. Van Dyke, 2009 A surprising number of maritime boundaries remain unresolved and a range of reasons can be cited to explain why the process of delimiting these boundaries has been so slow This volume addresses and analyzes some of these reasons focusing on some of the volatile disputes in Northeast Asia and in North America. Scholars from Asia, the United States and Europe grapple with festering controversies and apply insights gained from resolved disputes to those that remain unresolved. Islands continue to haunt this process and the way in which they should affect maritime boundaries remains in dispute. The United States has a number of disputed boundaries with its neighbors to the north and south and these are examined. Antarctica is a concern of all nations and the regimes governing the Southern Ocean surrounding Antarctica are analyzed. The International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea was created to allow countries to resolve their disputes peacefully and two chapters look at how this new court is operating. The impact of sea level rise on maritime boundaries is given special attention in the opening chapter. This volume presents a wonderful collection of provocative chapters written by the top scholars in the field of International Ocean Law. It should help scholars, students and decision makers to understand the current state of this field and to move some of the difficult disputes toward resolution.

Principles of International Criminal Law Gerhard Werle, Florian Jeßberger, 2020-10-09. Principles of International Criminal Law is one of the most influential textbooks in the field of international criminal justice. This fourth edition builds on the highly successful work of the previous editions, setting out the general principles governing international crimes as well as the fundamentals of both substantive and procedural international criminal law. It provides a detailed understanding of the sources and evolution of international criminal law, demonstrating how it has developed and how its application has changed. The book assesses in detail the four key international crimes as defined by the statute of the International Criminal Court: genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and the crime of aggression. The new edition revises and updates the work with developments in international criminal justice since 2014. It includes substantial new material on critical perspectives on international criminal justice, the fragmentation of international criminal law, new war crimes, prohibited means of warfare and the prosecution of crimes committed in Syria and Northern Iraq. The book retains its highly acclaimed systematic approach and consistent methodology, making it essential reading for both students and scholars of international criminal law as well as practitioners and judges working in the field.

Secession from a Member State and Withdrawal from the European Union Carlos Closa, 2017-09-07. This is the first book to jointly scrutinise two existential issues for the EU: the withdrawal of a member state (i.e. Brexit) and territorial secession affecting Scotland, Catalonia and beyond. The book applies normative and empirical analyses, explores new approaches and discusses the deep theoretical problems unleashed by these processes. Featuring a superb constellation of legal and political science scholars, the book combines specific legal analysis and considers the political dynamics behind the processes. It provides extensive coverage and sophisticated analysis of the interpretation of Article 50 and the possible consequences it may have. The implications of withdrawal and secession on EU citizenship are discussed in depth and there is an overview of the evolving nature of the relationship between the regions and the EU. Finally, there is an engaging normative discussion on the deeper meaning of these two processes with respect to the objective of European integration.
