Making Change Strategies Work Lucy M. Maarse, Wilma Wentholt, Anthony Nyiro Chibudu, 1998 Making Change Strategies Work Lucy M. Maarse, Wilma Wentholt, Anthony Nyiro Chibudu, 1998 Green Manure/Cover Crop Systems of Smallholder Farmers Marjatta Eilittä, Joseph Mureithi, Rolf Derpsch, 2007-05-08 In the 1980s and 1990s green manure cover crop GMCC systems became a popular agricultural technology in research and development efforts for smallholder tropical and subtropical farmers However few syntheses of these experiences have been conducted This volume of case studies contributes to bridging this gap by reviewing field level experiences with these systems Twelve case studies are included Eleven of them describe experiences from Latin America 4 cases Africa 6 cases and Asia 1 case and the twelfth case reports on the development of a GMCC systems database Two concluding chapters Learning from the Case Studies and Future Perspectives build upon the cases The systems described are diverse Some systems have been spontaneously adopted by farmers while others have been introduced to the farmers through diffusion efforts Some of the cases reviewed describe small localized efforts while others report on large scale well known ones such as the combination of GMCCs and conservation tillage in Santa Catarina Brazil the maize Mucuna system in northern Honduras and the improved fallow systems in Eastern Zambia Most experiences include both development and research aspects and to the extent possible the cases integrate these two Discussion of the strengths and shortcomings of the systems and efforts is frank and the goal is to learn from these experiences to benefit future efforts It is expected that both researchers and development practitioners and students of tropical farming systems and soil management will find this volume of case studies useful Communication for Rural Innovation Cees Leeuwis, 2013-04-30 This important book is the re titled third edition of the extremely well received and widely used Agricultural Extension van den Ban Hawkins 1988 1996 Building on the previous editions Communication for Rural Innovation maintains and adapts the insights and conceptual models of value today while reflecting many new ideas angles and modes of thinking concerning how agricultural extension is taught and carried through today Since the previous edition of the book the number and type of organisations that apply communicative strategies to foster change and development in agriculture and resource management has become much more varied and this book is aimed at those who use communication to facilitate change in agriculture and resource management Communication for Rural Innovation is essential reading for process facilitators communication division personnel knowledge managers training officers consultants policy makers extension specialists and managers of agricultural extension or research organisations The book can also be used as an advanced introduction into issues of communicative intervention at BSc or MSc level

New Books on Women and Feminism, 1999 Agriculture + Rural Development, 2000 International African Bibliography, 2000 World Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Abstracts, 1998 Bibliography of Agriculture, 1999 Gender Differences in Climate Change Perceptions and Adaptation Strategies Marther Ngigi, Ulrike Mueller, Regina Birner, 2016 It has been widely acknowledged that the effects of climate change are not gender neutral However existing studies on adaptation to climate change mainly focus on a comparison of male headed and female headed households Aiming at a more nuanced gender analysis this study examines how husbands and wives within the same household perceive climate risks and group based approaches as coping strategies The data stem from a unique self collected and intra household survey involving 156 couples in rural Kenya where husbands and wives were interviewed separately Options for adapting to climate change closely interplay with husbands and wives roles and responsibilities social norms risk perceptions and access to resources Consequently a higher percentage of wives adopt crop related strategies whereas husbands employ livestock and agroforestry related strategies Besides there are gender specific climate information needs gendered trust of information and preferred channels of information dissemination Further it turned out that group based approaches benefit husbands and wives differently Group based approaches provide avenues for diversifying livelihoods and managing risks for wives while they are pathways for sharing climate information and adaptation options for husbands Social groups help husbands and wives to enhance their welfare through accumulating vital types of capital such as livestock durable assets human natural financial and social capital The findings suggest that designing gender sensitive policies and institutionalizing gender in climate change adaptation and mitigation frameworks are vital Policy interventions that rely on group based approaches must reflect gender perspectives on the ground in order to amplify men s and women s specific abilities to manage risks and improve welfare outcomes in the wake of accelerating climate change
