Making Meaning Eric Gould, 1989 Intensifying Classroom Routines in Reading and Writing Programs Michael P. Ford, 2017-06-15 Three common routines are seen in almost every primary language arts programs morning messages shared readings and word walls These routines should be integrated to support the total language arts program but are teachers of grades K 2 getting the most bang for their buck out of these activities Morning messages can become very routinized and repeat the same experiences over and over again Shared readings are sometimes conducted with little variation in spite of changing demands from the texts being used and changing needs in the learners with whom they are being used Word walls might be put up with some attention early in the year and remain virtually unchanged as the year moves forward Intensifying Classroom Routines in Reading and Writing Programs focuses on how teachers can get more instructional mileage out of these three common classroom routines Author Michael P Ford lays out step by step day by day plans to put those three key routines on a cycle that changes as students move through developmental phases This resource helps teachers plan for emergent and early readers and writers It also looks at how teachers can assist students as they move through critical areas including concepts of print alphabetic knowledge phonological awareness sound symbol relationships high frequency words structural analysis context clues comprehension strategies and composition strategies With these intensified routines in place students will clearly see connections between reading and writing Writing and Reading Connections Zoi A. Philippakos, Steve Graham, 2022-11-18 Writing skills are essential for success in the 21st century school and workplace but most classrooms devote far more time to reading instruction with writing often addressed in isolation or excluded In this insightful professional development resource and text leading researchers discuss why and how to integrate writing and reading instruction in grades K 12 and beyond Contributors explore how to harness writing reading connections to support learning in such areas as phonics and spelling vocabulary understanding genre and text structure and self regulated strategy development as well as across content areas and disciplines Special considerations in teaching emergent bilingual students and struggling literacy learners are described User friendly features include guiding questions classroom examples and action questions that help teachers translate the research and concepts into practice An NCTQ Exemplary Text for Reading Instruction Making Meaning Marilyn Narey, 2008-11-07 Making Meaning is a synthesis of theory research and practice that explicitly presents art as a meaning making process This book provokes readers to examine their current understandings of language literacy and learning through the lens of the various arts based perspectives offered in this volume provides a starting point for constructing broader multimodal views of what it might mean to make meaning and underscores why understanding arts based learning as a meaning making process is especially critical to early childhood education in the face of narrowly focused test driven curricular reforms Each contributor integrates this theory and research with stories of how passionate teachers teacher educators and pre service teachers along with administrators artists and professionals from a variety of fields have transcended disciplinary boundaries to engage the arts as a meaning making process for young children and for themselves
