Unlearning the Colonial Cultures of Planning Libby Porter, 2016-02-24 Colonialization has never failed to provoke discussion and debate over its territorial economic and political projects and their ongoing consequences This work argues that the state based activity of planning was integral to these projects in conceptualizing shaping and managing place in settler societies Planning was used to appropriate and then produce territory for management by the state and in doing so became central to the colonial invasion of settler states Moreover the book demonstrates how the colonial roots of planning endure in complex post colonial societies and how such roots manifest in everyday planning practice continue to shape land use contests between indigenous people and planning systems in contemporary post colonial states

Indigenous Communities and Settler Colonialism Z. Laidlaw, Alan Lester, 2015-03-30 The new world created through Anglophone emigration in the 19th century has been much studied But there have been few accounts of what this meant for the Indigenous populations This book shows that Indigenous communities tenaciously held land in the midst of dispossession

Lower Fraser River British Columbia a group commonly called the Stl have historical memories and senses of identity deriving from events cultural practices and kinship bonds that had been continuously adapting long before a non Native visited the area directly In The Power of Place the Problem of Time Keith Thor Carlson re thinks the history of Native newcomer relations from the unique perspective of a classically trained historian who has spent nearly two decades living working and talking with the Stl peoples Stl actions and reactions during colonialism were rooted in their pre colonial experiences and customs which coloured their responses to events such as smallpox outbreaks or the gold rush Profiling tensions of gender and class within the community Carlson emphasizes the elasticity of collective identity A rich and complex history The Power of Place the Problem of Time looks to both the internal and the external factors which shaped a society during a time of great change and its implications extend far beyond the study region

Towards a New Ethnohistory

Keith Thor Carlson, John Sutton Lutz, David M. Schaepe, Naxaxalhts'i - Albert "Sonny" McHalsie, 2018-04-20 Towards a New Ethnohistory engages respectfully in cross cultural dialogue and interdisciplinary methods to co create with Indigenous people a new decolonized ethnohistory This new ethnohistory reflects Indigenous ways of knowing and is a direct response to critiques of scholars who have for too long foisted their own research agendas onto Indigenous communities Community engaged scholarship invites members of the Indigenous community themselves to identify the research questions host the researchers while they conduct the research and participate meaningfully in the analysis of the researchers findings The historical research topics chosen by the Stl community leaders and knowledge keepers for the contributors to this collection range from the intimate and personal to the broad and collective But what principally distinguishes the analyses is the way settler colonialism is positioned as something that unfolds in sometimes unexpected ways within Stl history as opposed to the other way around This collection presents the best work to come out of the world s only graduate level humanities based ethnohistory field school The blending of methodologies and approaches from the humanities and social sciences is a model of twenty first century interdisciplinarity
