Boring Postcards USA Martin Parr, 2004-03-01 In Boring Postcards Magnum photographer and postcard enthusiast Martin Parr brought together 160 of the dullest postcards of 1950s 60s and 70s Britain to make a book that was contrary to the conceit of its title both fascinating and extremely funny It was one of those ideas that seemed so obvious that no one could believe it hadn't been done before and it caught the public imagination in a big way In Britain Boring Postcards was discussed everywhere from daytime TV shows to art and design magazines from local newspapers and radio stations outraged that their town should be labelled boring to Time magazine Now Parr has turned his attention to the USA for a new book of Boring Postcards Just as before for a postcard to qualify as sufficiently boring either its composition its content or the characters featured must be arguably boring or the photograph must be absent of anything that might conventionally be described as interesting As the study of postcards becomes a field of academic interest this book offers more than amusement as a folk art recording of the non places and non events of post war America it reveals poignant insights into its social cultural and architectural values Bliss Martin Parr, 2003 Soap packet book design printed in fluorescent colors on packaging cardboard by award winning designer Vince Frost From Our House to Your House Martin Parr, 2002 Leading photographer Martin Parr author of the highly successful Boring Postcards has put together another wonderful book from his personal collection of cards These are a fascinating eye opener into American culture as proud families everywhere pets included pose before the camera to send their Christmas greetings across the nation Illustrated with 80 photos
