Cortázar, 1999 This volume presents an integrated epidemiologic, social and economic analysis of the global epidemics of HIV among sex workers in low and middle income countries. The book provides a comprehensive review and synthesis of the available public health and social science data to characterize the nature, scope and complexities of these epidemics. A community empowerment based approach to HIV prevention, treatment and care is outlined and demonstrated to be cost effective across multiple settings with a significant projected impact on HIV incidence among sex workers and transmission dynamics overall. The Global HIV Epidemics among Sex Workers seeks to assist governments, public health implementing agencies, donors and sex worker communities to better understand and respond to the epidemics among a population facing heightened social and structural vulnerabilities to HIV. The book combines a systematic review of the global epidemiology of HIV among sex workers and in depth case studies of the epidemiology, policy and programmatic responses and surrounding social contexts for HIV prevention, care and treatment in eight countries. The authors employ mathematical modeling and cost effectiveness analysis to assess the potential country level impact of a community empowerment based approach to HIV prevention, treatment and care among sex workers when taken to scale in four countries representing diverse sociopolitical contexts and HIV epidemics: Brazil, Kenya, Thailand and Ukraine. In each setting, greater investment in prevention, treatment and care for sex workers is shown to significantly reduce HIV. Together these findings underline the urgency of further global investment in comprehensive human rights based responses to HIV among sex workers. Teratology in the Twentieth

Kalter, 2003-06-06 This book is an up to date survey and summary of present knowledge and future expectations regarding the environmental causes of congenital malformations in human beings beginning with the earliest discoveries of the 20th century up to the latest ideas and problems at its end. It presents views and comments on the progress made over the century in understanding human prenatal maldevelopment. In Pursuit . . . Joanna FitzPatrick, 2010-12-07 In Pursuit reinvents the life of Katherine Mansfield. 1988-1923 the modernist writer who revolutionized the short story created the only writing Virginia Woolf was ever jealous of and was consumed by tuberculosis at thirty-four. Intertwined into the story are Katherine's letters and journal writings that reveal her volatile relationships with her husband, her caregiver Ida and her extraordinary passion for life as she fights against a disease that saps her energy and steals her time to write. The story begins in London where Mansfield has married her long time lover John Middleton Murry. Soon after on her thirtieth birthday she is diagnosed with tuberculosis and told she has a few years to live if she stops writing. She moves to a sanatorium and promises to live a quiet, passive life. Too young for such a prognosis she attempts a home cure that fails. Then a wandering consumptive with a fierce grip on life and her writing tools she travels from London to Paris to the Riviera and to the Alps in
