Time to Write John Sylvester Lofty, 2015-02-10 Analyzes interviews with students teachers and administrators to develop a new set of literacies essential for student success in the digital age To read John's work is to take on the role of a patient listener A book like a piece of music is scored for time and I feel Time to Write is scored adagio I believe that Time to Write can be read as a critique of the time chopping approach to education and an argument for presence for being fully open to experience for being there To do good work we must enter something like island time or what John calls existential time or what is sometimes called flow when we lose at least temporarily a sense of clock time from the Foreword by Thomas Newkirk Twenty five years ago John Sylvester Lofty studied the influence of cultural time values on students resistance to writing instruction in an isolated Maine fishing community For the new edition of Time to Write Lofty returned to the island to consider how social and educational developments in the intervening years may have affected both local culture and attitudes toward education. Lofty discovered how the island time values that previously informed students' literacy learning have been transformed by outside influences including technology, social media, and the influx of new residents from urban areas. Building on the ethnographic findings of the original study, the new edition analyzes the current conflict between the digital age time values of constant connections and instant communication and those of school-based literacy. Lofty examines the new literacies now essential for students in a technologically connected world, both those who aspire to continue the traditional island work of lobster fishing and for the many who now choose to pursue other careers and attend college on the mainland.

Judy Moody: Sunny-Side Up Megan McDonald, 2024-09-10 Sometimes you just have to find the good news as Judy Moody discovers when she creates her very own newspaper featured as a bonus at the end of the book. Wow wow wow wow Mr Todd has Class 3T looking for the Five Ws in the newspaper but all Judy can see is how much bad news there is. Climate change. Deadly virus. Sea turtles endangered by straws stuck in their noses. The good news is that Judy is taking all the bad news as a call to action. She gets out her notebook, clicks her six-year pen, transforms into a Kid Reporter, and goes out in search of happier stories: Rare bird sighting in Virginia Beach. Escaped bearded dragon found. Plastic straws banned at Virginia Dare School. There's even a scoop that Judy overhears while ordering a scoop at Screamin' Mimi's about someone who found real buried treasure. Kids intrigued by the first edition of Judy's Sunny Side Up News, offering stories, a word search, a comic, a recipe, and more, may just be inspired to create their own second edition. After all, there's no telling how much good news is out there until you start looking and acting.
