Undelivered Letters to Hudson's Bay Company Men on the Northwest Coast of America, 1830-57 Helen M. Buss,Judith Hudson Beattie,2011-11-01 In the early nineteenth century when the Hudson s Bay Company sent men to its furthest posts along the coast of North America s Pacific Northwest the letters of those who cared for those men followed them in the Company's supply ships. Sometimes these letters missed their objects: the men had returned to Britain or deserted their ships or died. The Company returned the correspondence to its London office and over the years amassed a file of undelivered letters. Many of these remained sealed for 150 years and until they were opened by archivist Judith Hudson Beattie when the Company archives were moved to Canada. These letters tell the fascinating stories of ordinary people whose lives are rarely recounted in traditional histories. Beattie and Helen M Buss skilfully introduce us to both the lives of the letter writers and their would-be recipients. Their commentaries frame for contemporary readers the words of early nineteenth-century working and middle-class British folk as well as letters to voyageurs from Quebec. The stories of their lives, fathers struggling to support a family, widowed mothers yearning to see their sons, bereft sweethearts left behind, and wives raising their children alone, reach out over two centuries to offer rare insight into the varied worlds of men and women in the early nineteenth century, many of whom became settlers in Washington, Oregon, and the new British colony of Vancouver Island.

Letters to His Son Chesterfield, 1803 Letters to Franca (1961–1972) Louis Althusser, 2025-02-20

Letters to Franca offers an extensive selection from the 500 or so extraordinary letters Louis Althusser addressed to Franca Madonia between 1961 and 1972, the most productive period in Althusser's life and the time when his most characteristic works were being elaborated and first received. This correspondence allows therefore a unique insight into Althusser's theoretical and political trajectory, giving an intimate account of the establishment of Althusserian Marxism and the intellectual, historical, and institutional milieu within which it came to prominence. It also charts the singular story of Althusser's relationship with Franca, whom he encountered in 1961 and who became his lover, intellectual confidante, and Italian translator; the letters thus have a quasi-novelistic dimension and afford a gripping vision of a remarkable couple, the chronicle of a passion. Their correspondence consequently exhibits an exceptionally diverse tonal range, alternately analytical, lyrical, ludic, and sombre, displaying an investment in language and expression barely suggested by Althusser's previously published work. At once the diary of an intellectual, political existence and the narrative of a coup de foudre, these letters also uniquely provide an astonishingly self-reflexive account of Althusser's experience of manic depression, inviting the reader to witness its sometimes exhilarating, sometimes devastating effects upon his private and public being. Featuring an extensive record of Althusser's long-term engagement with the thought and practice of psychoanalysis, Letters to Franca bids the reader here and throughout to accompany Althusser on a fascinating journey between theory and life.

Letters to Lucile Kathleen Loftus, 2020-01-13

An authentic collection of over 150 letters from a World War I soldier to his beloved, beginning with his deployment from his Chicago hometown in 1917 until the end of the war in late 1918. His very eloquent letters bring the reader inside a WWI soldier's life, from boot camp in Fort Logan, Texas, to the trenches of France. He chronicles firsthand many familiar historical figures and events while depicting both the similarities and changes in American life almost a century ago. Recently, additional letters were added, provided by the soldier's family.
