Farmer's Advocate and Home Journal, 1906 The Border Magazine Nicholas Dickson, William Sanderson, 1900 A Stranger in My Own Country Hans Fallada, 2015-01-20 I lived the same life as everyone else the life of ordinary people the masses. Sitting in a prison cell in the autumn of 1944 the German author Hans Fallada sums up his life under the National Socialist dictatorship the time of inward emigration. Under conditions of close confinement in constant fear of discovery he writes himself free from the nightmare of the Nazi years. He records his thoughts about spying and denunciation about the threat to his livelihood and his literary work and about the fate of many friends and contemporaries. The confessional mode did not come naturally to Fallada but in the mental and emotional distress of 1944 self-reflection became a survival strategy. Fallada's frank and sometimes provocative memoirs were thought for many years to have been lost. They are published here for the first time. A Marne Mind Cy Mulholland, 2012-02-01 Many who suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder do not realize what is going inside themselves. From Bureaucracy to Bullets Bree Akesson, Andrew R. Basso, 2022-02-11 There are currently a record-setting number of forcibly displaced persons in the world. This number continues to rise as solutions to alleviate humanitarian catastrophes of large-scale violence and displacement continue to fail. The likelihood of the displaced returning to their homes is becoming increasingly unlikely. In many cases their homes have been destroyed as the result of violence. Why are the homes of certain populations targeted for destruction? What are the impacts of loss of home upon children adults families communities and societies? If having a home is a fundamental human right then why is the destruction of home not viewed as a rights violation and punished accordingly? From Bureaucracy to Bullets answers these questions and more by focusing on the violent practice of extreme domicide or the intentional destruction of the home as a central and overlooked human rights issue.
