Representation Et Presence:

Stereotypical or Non-typical? Women in Polish TV Series: Their Image, Presence and Context of Appearance Radosław Sojak, Andrzej Meler, Beata Królicka, 2020 The key objective of this work is to answer the question To what extent do contemporary Polish TV series try to change stereotypes about women and to what extent do they preserve them The analysis involved a total of eight series produced and broadcast by Telewizja Polska TVN and Telewizja Polsat grouped by genre into 1 drama series soap operas 2 historical drama series 3 crime dramas and 4 comedy series The analysis included 76 episodes of the above series with a total length of 49 hours and 51 minutes The subject of quantitative analysis was the total speaking time of female characters and their visibility on the screen The qualitative analysis was based on the identification of the most important gender stereotypes and their use in the series storylines In the analysed series female characters speak for one fifth of the time longer than male characters and are visible on the screen 15% longer than male characters The dominant plots in the sample are issues of interpersonal relationships i e partner relationships emotional and sexual relationships 29% and casual social relationships meetings visits parties 26% Together both contexts account for 55% of the time Their analysis establishes with a few exceptions the most prevalent cultural stereotypes about women including in particular greater emotionality strong focus on family and home matters but not necessarily childcare and general life orientation on building lasting interpersonal relationships Due to the requirements of the plot these stereotypes are nevertheless broken through In particular women often turn out to be resourceful and entrepreneurial The analysis of stereotypes also indicates that the introduction of women into traditionally male roles is much easier than introducing men into roles traditionally considered female

Meaning, Truth, and Reference in Historical Representation Frank Ankersmit, 2012-05-04 In this book the noted intellectual historian Frank Ankersmit provides a systematic account of the problems of reference truth and meaning in historical writing He works from the conviction that the historicist account of historical writing associated primarily with Leopold von Ranke and Wilhelm von Humboldt is essentially correct but that its original idealist and romanticist idiom needs to be translated into more modern terms Rehabilitating historicism for the contemporary philosophy of history he argues reveals the basic truths about the nature of the past itself how we relate to it and how we make sense of the past in historical writing At the heart of Ankersmit's project is a sharp distinction between interpretation and representation The historical text he holds is first and foremost a representation of some part of the past not an interpretation The book's central chapters address the concept of historical representation from the perspectives of reference truth and meaning Ankersmit then goes on to discuss the possible role of experience in the history writing which leads directly to a consideration of subjectivity and ethics in the historian's practice Ankersmit concludes with a chapter on political history which he maintains is the basis and condition of all other variants of historical writing Ankersmit's rehabilitation of historicism is a powerfully original and provocative contribution to the debate about the nature of historical writing     The Paradox of American Unionism Seymour Martin Lipset, Noah M. Meltz, 2018-09-05 Why have Americans who by a clear majority approve of unions been joining them in smaller numbers than ever before This book answers that question by comparing the American experience with that of Canada where approval for unions is significantly lower than in the United States but where since the mid 1960s workers have joined organized labor to a much greater extent Given that the two countries are outwardly so similar what explains this paradox This book provides a detailed comparative analysis of both countries using among other things a detailed survey conducted in the United States and Canada by the Ipsos Reid polling group The authors explain that the relative reluctance of employees in the United States to join unions compared with those in Canada is rooted less in their attitudes toward unions than in the former country's deep seated tradition of individualism and laissez faire economic values Canada has a more statist social democratic tradition which is in turn attributable to its Tory and European conservative lineage Canadian values are therefore more supportive of unionism making unions more powerful and thus paradoxically lowering public approval of unions Public approval is higher in the United States where unions exert less of an influence over politics and the economy     Encyclopedia of Modern French Thought Christopher John Murray, 2004 This work covers not only philosophy but also all the other major disciplines including literary theory sociology linguistics political thought theology and more The 240 analytical entries examine individuals such as Bergson Durkheim Mauss Sartre Beauvoir Foucault Levi Strauss Lacan Kristeva and Derrida specific disciplines such as the arts anthropology historiography psychology and sociology key beliefs and methodologies such as Catholicism deconstruction feminism Marxism and phenomenology themes and concepts such as freedom language media and sexuality and historical political social and intellectual context From publisher's description     Text, Image, and the Problem with Perfection in Nineteenth-Century France Daniel Sipe, 2016-04-01 In the decades after the French Revolution philosophers artists and social scientists set out to chart and build a way to a new world and their speculative blueprints circulated like banknotes in a parallel economy of ideas Examining representations of ideal societies in nineteenth century French culture Daniel Sipe argues that the dream image of the literary or art historical utopia does not disappear but rather is profoundly altered by its proximity to the social utopianism of the day Sipe focuses on this persistent afterlife in utopias ranging from François René de Chateaubriand's Amerindian utopia in Atala 1801 to the utopian spoof of J J Grandville's illustrated novel Un autre monde 1844 He proposes a new reading of Étienne Cabet's seminal utopian novel Voyage en Icarie 1840 and offers an original perspective on the gendered utopias of technological inspiration that authors such as Charles Barbara and Auguste Villiers de l'Isle Adam penned in the second half of the century In addition Sipe considers utopias or important readings of the century's rampant utopianism in among others Victor Hugo Alfred de Vigny Théophile Gautier Charles Baudelaire and Gustave Courbet His book provides the historical context for comprehending the significance and implications of this enigmatic afterlife in nineteenth century utopian art and literature     Visual Arts and Religion Hans

A History of Philosophy, from Thales to the Present Time Friedrich Ueberweg, 1903

Silence and Society Charles Lemert, 2025-07-31 Silence and Society addresses the reality that social sciences have ignored the importance of silence in human communication Without communication there is no community and thus no society Yet as classic communication theory explains communication must always deal with noise Increasingly as cyber technologies and media have gained the upper hand in social life so have they become purveyors of empty noise from mindless sitcom television to uninformed talk radio to cable news blather and more The book is organized into three sections each corresponding to a level of social order Each bears a distinctive relation to the general problem of silence and noise in human community Part One Social Facts of Silence presents examples of the ways silence intrudes on vital aspects of human life in personal self understanding in the irony that direction communication requires a third absent party such as Goffman's ego identity in the fact that personal identity is the challenge of dealing with the trouble of deciding who we are in a given social setting Part Two Noise Dreams and Identity Confusions considers a range of community issues from the strange noises of quiet neighborhoods to the way the necessity of social conformity silences individual autonomy to the fact that the dead are ever present in daily language and behavior especially in common religious practices Finally Part Three Waste Death and the Beyond of Time suggests the principal ways the growing global environment aggravates human inequality by forcing the poor into zones of exclusion by increasing the mountain of human waste that in turn wastes human lives by the extent to which global theories and programs for economic development are little more

The Philosophy of Perception Lambert Wiesing, 2014-08-28 Lambert Wiesing's The Philosophy of Perception challenges current theories of perception Instead of attempting to understand how a subject perceives the world Wiesing starts by taking perception to be real He then asks what this reality means for a subject

In his original approach the question of how human perception is possible is displaced by questions about what perception obliges us to be and do He argues that perception requires us to be embodied to be visible and to continually participate in the public and physical world we perceive Only in looking at images he proposes can we achieve something like a break in participation a temporary respite from this one of perception's relentless demands Wiesing's methods chart a markedly new path in contemporary perception theory In addition to identifying common ground among diverse philosophical positions he identifies how his own phenomenological approach differs from those of many other philosophers past and present As part of the argument he provides a succinct but comprehensive survey of the philosophy of images His original critical exposition presents scholars of phenomenology perception and aesthetics with a new important understanding of the old phenomenon the human being in the world

White Musical Mythologies Edmund Mendelssohn, 2023-09-12 In a narrative that extends from fin de siècle Paris to the 1960s Edmund Mendelssohn examines modernist thinkers and composers who engaged with non European and pre modern cultures as they developed new conceptions of pure sound Pairing Erik Satie with Bergson Edgard Varèse with Bataille Pierre Boulez with Artaud and John Cage with Derrida White Musical Mythologies offers an ambitious critical history of the ontology of sound suggesting that the avant garde ideal of pure sound was always an expression of western ethnocentrism Each of the musicians studied in this book re created or appropriated non European forms of expression as they conceived music ontologically often thinking music as something immediate and immersive from Satie's dabblings with mysticism and exoticism in bohemian Montmartre of the 1890s to Varèse's experience of ethnographic exhibitions and surrealist poetry in 1930s Paris and from Boulez's endeavor to theorize a kind of musical writing that would absorb the sounds of non European musical traditions to Cage who took inspiration from Eastern thought as he wrote about sound silence and chance These modernist artists believed that the presence effects of sound in their moment were more real and powerful than the outmoded norms of the European musical past By examining musicians who strove to produce sonic presence specifically by re thinking the concept of musical writing critique the book demonstrates that we cannot fully understand French theory in its novelty and complexity without music and sound Supported by the AMS 75 PAYS Fund of the American Musicological Society supported in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Andrew W Mellon Foundation
