

Energy Sector Economic Analysis

The energy sector includes corporations that primarily are in the business of producing or supplying energy such as fossil fuels or renewables. The energy sector has been an important driver of industrial growth over the past century.

Economics

All economic activity requires energy resources, whether to manufacture goods, provide transportation, run computers and other machines.

All economic activity requires energy resources, whether to manufacture goods, provide transportation, run computers and other machines.

Financial Market

The Global Industry Classification Standard used by Morgan Stanley define the energy industry as comprising companies primarily working with oil, gas, coal and consumable fuels.

Environmental Impact

Consumption of energy resources, (e.g. turning on a light) requires resources and has an effect on the environment.

Development

Producing energy to sustain human needs is an essential social activity, and a great deal of effort goes into the activity. While most of such effort is limited towards increasing the production of electricity and oil, newer ways of producing usable energy resources from the available energy resources are being explored.
