This book explores Tony Blair and Gordon Brown's attempt to sell the European ideal to the British people New Labour came to power in 1997 promising to modernize the country and make it fit for the twenty first century In foreign policy Blair and Brown set about rethinking core components of the British national identity especially the country's relationship to its past and its role in the world Rebranding Britain they argued meant helping the British people feel comfortably at home in the European Union What did New Labour achieve and did its European policy succeed How did Blair and Brown try and persuade the British to accept a European future What were the obstacles they faced and the strategies they used to overcome them This timely study of New Labour's effort to build a pro European consensus in Britain argues that the government failed to live up to its early promises Based on evidence from well over one hundred of Blair and Brown's foreign policy speeches supplemented by interviews with policy makers advisers and speech writers from the time the book is sympathetic to the challenge New Labour set itself but also critical of the rhetorical techniques it used to advance the Europeanist cause Trapped between a broadly hostile media and an apathetic public Blair and Brown failed to provide the necessary leadership to see Britain to a European future Theoretically informed empirically robust and methodologically innovative this novel book will appeal to anyone interested in contemporary British foreign policy the New Labour project and Euroscepticism in Britain British Political Parties and National Identity Pauline Schnapper, 2020-05-15 This study is about party political discourses on national identity in Britain under the New Labour governments 1997 2010 Britishness has become a major theme in the British political debate since the end of the second world war and even more so since the early 1990s either directly or through discussions of specific issues like immigration Europe or devolution to Scotland and Wales Numerous political leaders have publicly worried about the weakness of the common citizenship in the UK and the threat to the survival of Britishness which has been the only common thread in competing discourses between and within parties The book examines the four issues which have embodied the different aspects of the debate about national identity in the UK namely devolution multiculturalism European integration and globalisation It shows that the polarised discourses especially between the Conservatives and Labour of the 1990s have given way to a relative rapprochement on these issues with the notable exception of the European Union where a real cleavage in rhetoric if not in policy remains between and sometimes within British political parties The Making of Eurosceptic Britain Dr Chris Gifford, 2014-10-28 What has been the political impact of the Eurozone Debt Crisis in the UK To what extent have the bank collapses and bailouts reinforced Britain's Eurosceptic trajectory In this revised and updated second edition Chris Gifford addresses these key questions reflecting on the Labour government's approach to Europe while exploring the extensive mobilisation of Eurosceptic forces in opposition to the Conservative led coalition government Britain Since 1707 Hamish Fraser, Callum G. second theme is the power of geographical images island Britain in feeding the idea of the British nation as by nature separate and autonomous It follows that the EU is seen as other and involvement in European decision making tends to be viewed in terms of threat This is naive as nation states are not autonomous economically militarily or politically Only pooling sovereignty can maximize their national interests Atsuko Ichijo is Senior Researcher in European Studies at Kingston University
