September 11 2001 Readings For Writers:

Reading and Writing for Civic Literacy Donald Lazere, 2017-07-05 Lazere's book is heaven sent and will provide a crucial link in the chain of understanding how conflicts are structured and most importantly how they can be rationally addressed a healthy antidote to the scepticism that has become so pervasive in academic life Alan Hausman Hunter College This innovative book addresses the need for college students to develop critical reading writing and thinking skills for self defence in the contentious arena of American civic rhetoric In a groundbreaking reconception of composition theory it presents a comprehensive critical perspective on American public discourse and practical methods for its analysis Exercises following the text sections and readings help students understand the ideological positions and rhetorical patterns that underlie opposing viewpoints in current controversies such as the growing inequality of wealth in America and its impact on the finances of college students as expressed in paired sets of readings from the political left and right Widely debated issues of whether objectivity is possible and whether there is a liberal or conservative bias in news and entertainment media as well as in education itself are foregrounded as topics for rhetorical analysis

Writing the War on Terrorism Richard Jackson, 2005-07-22 This book examines the language of the war on terrorism and is essential reading for anyone wanting to understand how the Bush administration's approach to counter terrorism became the dominant policy paradigm in American politics today

European Security After 9/11 Matthew Sussex, 2017-07-05 Much scholarly attention has been paid to the United States response to the events of 9 11 This timely volume broadens our understanding of the impact of the attacks by instead considering their consequences for European security and for the relationship between the US and leading European states Bringing together an impressive collection of experts this work will be an excellent resource for courses on international security European politics and international relations

Readings in Writing Courses Richard C. Raymond, 2010-12-01 As the title suggests this six chapter book responds to a question which in Western culture goes back to Plato Aristotle Cicero and Quintilian namely What should rhetoric teachers ask their students to read Primarily historical the first two chapters trace conflicting answers to the question above focusing on two constructive results of the debate the reinvention of rhetoric and writing as a discipline a coherent and growing body of knowledge and as a result the emergence of independent departments of writing free from departments of English free therefore to develop their own curriculum and to manage their own budgets Additionally the second chapter examines two destructive consequences of this debate the ban of literature from writing courses where students might profitably study both and as a result the often painful departmental splits which not only separate former colleagues but also cramp the pedagogy of those trained to teach both writing and literature More than a survey of key publications this chapter encourages readers to honor the discipline of rhetoric but to make a place for literature on their composition syllabi The next four chapters provide pedagogical support for these chief claims that literature can and should be taught in writing courses and that such readings need not distract students from the primary text their own writing On the contrary these readings motivate serious writing when students feel invited into a conversation on issues that touch their lives These pedagogical chapters then move entering professionals from the theoretical debate to the application of theory therefore the book would serve well professors of courses in composition theory particularly those who enjoy teaching the conflicts and preparing their graduate students to design assignments and courses that apply theories of learning reading and composing

9/11 Fiction, Empathy, and Otherness Tim

Gauthier,2015-04-02 9 11 Fiction Empathy and Otherness analyzes recent works of fiction whose principal subject is the attacks of September 11 2001 The readings of the novels question and assess the validity and potential effectiveness of both the subsequent calls for a cosmopolitan outlook and the related but no less significant emphasis placed on empathy and exhibited in such recent studies as Jeremy Rifkin s The Empathic Civilization Karsten Stueber s Rediscovering Empathy and Julinna Oxley s The Moral Dimensions of Empathy As such this study examines the extent to which us and them narratives proliferated after 9 11 and the degree to which calls for greater empathy and a renewed emphasis on cosmopolitan values served to counterbalance an apparent movement towards increased polarization encapsulated in the oft mentioned clash of civilizations A principal objective of the book is thus to examine the ethical and political implications revealed in the exercising or withholding of empathy For though empathy in and of itself may not be sufficient it is nevertheless a vital component in the generation of actions one might identify as cosmopolitan In other words this book examines the responses to 9 11 in both Western and non Western novels in order to uncover what their dramatic renderings might tell us about the possibility of a truly globalized community The attainability of any cosmopolitan engagement is contingent upon our abilities to understand the other knowing always that otherness eludes our grasp and the best we can do is imagine some version of it It is primarily in this capacity that the novel has a role to play Whether it is the challenge of connecting with the survivors of trauma and the inhabitants of a traumatized city or with a hyperpower that has experienced its own vulnerability for the first time or even with the terrorist who seeks to commit violent acts these novels afford us the means of examining the complex dynamics involved in any exhibition of fellow feeling for the other and the ever present potential failure of that engagement

Composition in the Age of Austerity Nancy Welch,Tony Scott,2016-04-01 In the face of the gradual saturation of US public education by the logics of neoliberalism educators often find themselves at a loss to respond let alone resist Through state defunding and many other reforms fueled by austerity politics a majority of educators are becoming casual labor in US universities while those who hang onto secure employment are pressed to act as self supporting entrepreneurs or do more with less Focusing on the discipline of writing studies this collection addresses the sense of crisis that many educators experience in this age of austerity The chapters in this book chronicle how neoliberal political economy shapes writing assessments curricula teacher agency program administration and funding distribution Contributors also focus on how neoliberal political economy dictates the direction of scholarship because the economic and political agenda shaping the terms of work the methods of delivery and the ways of valuing and assessing writing also shape the primary concerns and directions of scholarship Composition in the Age of Austerity offers critical accounts of how the restructuring of higher education is shaping the daily realities of composition programs The book documents the effects and implications of the current restructuring examines how cherished rhetorical ideals actually leave the field unprepared to respond effectively to defunding and corporatizing trends and establishes points of departure for collective response
