Once Removed Voices From Inside The Adoption Triangle:

Once Removed Wendie Redmond, Sherry Sleightholm, 1982

My Search for Catherine Anne Barrie Clark, 1989

Author Barrie Clark tells how he explored every possible source of information that might lead him to his daughter who was given up for adoption. He also tells how unknown to him his daughter was looking for him at the same time he was looking for her. This is more than a fascinating detective story; it is also a poignant heartwarming tale of two human beings and their hopes and fears as they persevere in their searches. Clark emerges as a kind, engaging man haunted by memories of his youth and driven by an intense longing to meet the child he had fathered so long ago. Catherine Anne herself is a sensitive young woman who even as a girl was deeply troubled by not knowing her natural parents. My Search for Catherine Anne is a touching story of separation, longing, and reunion that reminds us how resilient the bonds of family can be. The Stranger Who Bore Me Karen March, 1995-05-10. In The Stranger Who Bore Me, sixty adult adoptees discuss the difficulties they have encountered in a world where biological kinship governs. Each of their stories reveals the personal dilemma created by the societal demand for secrecy and the deep pain and intense joy associated with adoptees making contact with their birth mother. Karen March has created a compelling and informative analysis of this need of some adoptees. Little research has been done on the actual outcome of adoptee birth parent reunion, and most arguments in this controversial area are based on personal anecdotal reports. This book offers the first systematic study of the consequences of reunion. As such, it is an invaluable guide for any member of an adoptive triad as well as for professionals and government officials in the field of adoption. Doing Everyday Life : Ethnography as Human Lived Experience Robert Prus, 1994. Finding Families, Finding Ourselves Veronica Jane Strong-Boag, 2006. In Finding Families, Finding Ourselves, historian Veronica Strong Boag examines the realities behind idealized pictures of adoptive families rescuing needy children or adoptees fitting seamlessly into new families. The first comprehensive examination of the history of adoption in Canada, Finding Families, Finding Ourselves draws on a broad range of sources from legal cases, sociological studies, and government policies to fiction and first-hand accounts. Strong Boag argues that adoption far from being a marginal aspect of Canadian history goes to the heart of who we are as individuals and as a national community. With its complicated dance of obligations and rights, insiders and outsiders, acceptance and rejection, adoption reflects the ways in which we as families and as communities have consciously and unconsciously remade ourselves in the course of creating our future. BOOK JACKET Adoption Reunions Michelle McColm, 1993. In this practical book, Michelle McColm takes the adoptee and birth parent carefully through the process of adoption reunion, drawing on extensive interviews and the experience of her own reunion. Search Jayne Askin, 1998. Advises those who were adopted as children how to organize a search for their natural parents and reviews each state's legal considerations and records centers. Canadian Families 1900-2000 Benjamin Schlesinger, 2000. This partially annotated bibliography of 943 articles relating to Canadian Families covers the period from 1900-2000. The concept is unique in its attempt to give the reader an overview of what has been published in English on the major issues relating to Canadian Families during a century Items in the bibliography are organized into 50 topical headings and include articles books reports surveys and other entries from published sources Also included is a selection of relevant websites An introductory essay highlights some of the major events relating to Canadian Families during the 1964 2000 period Historical entries let the reader examine what family life was like during the first 50 years of the 20th century An author index of 968 names allows for quick reference to specific bibliographic items

International and Transracial Adoptions Christopher Bagley, Loretta Young, Anne Scully, 1993 The text begins with an overview of factors which contribute to adjustment in adoption including the role problems of adoptive parents adoptions by step parents and neglect and abuse of children prior to adoption Data from the British national child development study analyzed in this book indicate that adoption is a powerful environmental influence on children who without adoption would be at considerable risk for the development of major behavioural problems delinquency and mental illness Several chapters on inter country adoption highlight the policy dilemmas in this area and the slow progress towards comprehensive international agreements to protect the needs of inter country adopted children Two follow up studies are reported of Chinese and Vietnamese children now young adults adopted by British parents in the 1960s and 1970s The excellent outcomes for these children indicate that despite early trauma and neglect prior to adoption the mental health of these adoptees is as good as mental health profiles in within country adoptions
