Reasons for Decision Canada. National Energy Board, 1977      National Energy Board - Reasons For Decision - Northern Pipelines. June 1977 National Energy Board, 1977      Bob Blair's Pipeline François Bregha, 1981-01-01 Written in the early 80s this book brings to life the fascinating story of pipeliners politicians and the chase for the big energy dollars Fran ois Bregha discusses the implications of the federal Liberal government s 1980 decision to support the prebuild of a section of the Alaska Highway pipeline project permitting the export of Alberta gas to American markets at a time when Canada was struggling to conserve non renewable resources Bregha traces the steps by which the Liberal government concluded a bad deal under intense pressure from the Alberta government Alberta gas producers and the ever active Bob Blair whose Foothills company stood to gain huge windfall profits from the project Bob Blair s Pipeline is a fascinating account of conflict and accomodation between business and several levels of government in the highly charged field of northern energy development      Prophets, Pastors and Public Choices Roger Hutchinson, Canadian Corporation for Studies in Religion, 1992-05-25 The Mackenzie Valley natural gas pipeline debate included many actors This is the first in depth study in comparative religious ethics to examine the debate with a particular focus on the role of the Canadian churches In 1974 twenty seven of the world s largest oil and natural gas companies applied for permission to build a pipeline through the Mackenzie Valley to transport Alaskan and northern Canadian gas to large southern markets Many northern native peoples opposed the proposal and called for a moratorium on major northern development projects until native land claims had been settled The mainline Canadian Christian churches supported the call for a moratorium and through the interchurch coalition Project North campaigned against the pipeline However some native peoples supported the proposal to build the pipeline and many of the pipeline s proponents were members of churches that called for a moratorium on the project This case study in comparative religious ethics though written from a pro moratorium stand attempts to clarify the debate Conflicting responses to the pipeline proposal are assessed in relation to hard facts concerning the need for northern gas in the South social scientific findings regarding the impact of the pipeline on native communities the rights of native peoples to participate in decisions affecting their lives assumptions about the way of life of non native people in the South and the role of religious convictions in public choices This thoroughly researched study reveals the inner workings and influences of the Canadian churches involved and illustrates their commitment on behalf of the northern natives opposed to the project      Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Fossil and Synthetic Fuels, 1982      Federal Energy Regulatory Commission Reports United States. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 1981-07      Oil and Natural Gas from Alaska, Canada, and Mexico--only Limited Help for U.S. United States. General Accounting Office, 1980      Forming Economic Policy Fen Osler Hampson, 2013-11-07 How do governments make key decisions on vital economic questions of national importance Can they advance the national interest on issues that are highly politicized How do they respond to competing pressures from the international and domestic environments Forming Economic Policy explores these and other questions in Canada and Mexico two very different countries which share a common vulnerability to the world economy Using the case of energy the book argues that policymakers will address the national interest but only episodically with the onset of major national crises that invoke a higher and sustained sense of national priorities These crises are frequently induced by the interaction of domestic and foreign political and economic forces The conclusions are surprising Despite profound political and economic differences between these two countries policymakers have behaved in remarkably similar ways when arriving at key policy decisions The explanation which integrates two competing views of politics the pluralist and the statist has important implications with regard to the political processes in those states which like Canada and Mexico are exposed to the world economy and face problems of political legitimacy at home Forming Economic Policy will appeal to students and teachers of political economy and comparative politics as well as to those interested in the politics of energy policy

In Whose Interests M. Patricia Marchak, 2011-06-15 In In Whose Interests Patricia Marchak adopts a critical perspective arguing that multinational corporations do not operate in the interests of society at large or in the interests of a national society such as Canada Creating and sustaining a set of interests particular to their own well being and growth they are efficient organizations for which human labour and management of technical resources are primarily of monetary value Such resources along with natural materials are managed by and for corporations so that technology labour and knowledge are harnessed to corporate growth rather than social welfare Divided into two parts the first concerned with the political economy of a corporate capitalism with particular reference to the Canadian situation the second concerned with the internal organization of corporations and with the contributions of sociology to an understanding of these In Whose Interest provides a comprehensive entry into the literature of political economy

Heisler, 1980 Energy interdependence today and tomorrow Nuclear energy exports nonproliferation and U S foreign policy The evolution of U S foreign policy in energy from alliance politics to politics as usual Mexican hydrocarbon export policy Comparative energy policies Energy Policy Modeling: United States and Canadian Experiences W.T. Ziemba, S.L. Schwartz, 2012-12-06 Alex Cowie As the twentieth century draws to a close one of our greatest problems is the availability of energy One way to study the energy problem is to resolve it into four areas energy demand energy sources transportation of energy from sources to demand centers and the optimal allocation of energy forms to demands Each of these areas is extremely complex by itself When efforts are made to tie them together for example to produce a National Policy the complexities are compounded Another way to study the energy problem because of its political and social consequences is to resolve it into geographical areas Individual provinces of Canada or states of the United States will have their concerns about energy within their geographical boundaries As producer consumer or both each wants to ensure an energy development program which will work to the maximum benefit of its citizens Similarly countries endeavor to protect their citizens and undertake energy policies that will assure either a continuation of the existing quality of life or particularly in the case of Third World countries a marked improvement in quality of life These competing and conflicting goals call for a study which encompasses the whole world Again complexity is piled upon complexity If the problem is not yet sufficiently complex there is an equally complex question of the effect of energy production and use on the ecology Alberta Law Review ,2006
