discovered human remains mixed with the bones of prehistoric animals in a Vero Beach canal and proclaimed that humans had lived in North America since the Ice Age. These new findings by Elias Sellards flew in the face of prevailing wisdom which held that humans first came to the continent only 6 000 years ago. His claim was snubbed by the top scientists of his day; he was laughed out of the state. Vero's fame declined and the skull Sellards found famously known as Vero Man was lost. An Ice Age Mystery tells the story of Sellards's exciting find and the controversy it sparked. In the years that followed other archaeological discoveries and the rise of radiocarbon dating established that humans did arrive in North America earlier than previously thought. The skull however was never recovered and many people began to wonder: What exactly had Sellards found at Vero? And what else might be buried there? One hundred years after the first Vero discovery construction plans threatened to cover up the legendary dig site and a band of citizens and archaeologists protested. Excavations were reopened. Archaeologists uncovered 14 000 year old burnt mammal bones and charcoal signs of a human presence and found further evidence to indicate a continuous human occupation of the site for several thousand years. Prior to the latest excavations an etching on a bone possibly 13 000 years old was discovered that could be the oldest piece of art in America. Sellards had been right all along. Many questions still remain: Who were these people? Where did they come from? And how did they get here? This book draws readers into the past, present and future of one of the most historic discoveries in American archaeology.

Paleoindian Geoarchaeology of the Southern High Plains Vance T. Holliday, 2010-11-01. The Southern High Plains of northwestern Texas and eastern New Mexico are rich in Paleoindian archaeological sites including such well known ones as Clovis, Lubbock, Lake Plainview and Midland. These sites have been extensively researched over decades not only by archaeologists but also by geoscientists whose studies of soils and stratigraphy have yielded important information about cultural chronology and paleoenvironments across the region. In this book Vance T. Holliday synthesizes the data from these earlier studies with his own recent research to offer the most current and comprehensive overview of the geoarchaeology of the Southern High Plains during the earliest human occupation. He delves into twenty sites in depth integrating new and old data on site geomorphology, stratigraphy, soils, geochronology and paleoenvironments. He also compares the Southern High Plains sites with other sites across the Great Plains for a broader chronological and paleoenvironmental perspective. With over ninety photographs, maps, cross sections, diagrams and artifact drawings, this book will be essential reading for geoarchaeologists, archaeologists and Quaternary geoscientists as well as avocational archaeologists who take part in Paleoindian site study throughout the American West.
