Analysis of Urban Growth and Sprawl from Remote Sensing

Data Basudeb Bhatta, 2010-03-03 This book provides a comprehensive discussion on urban growth and sprawl and how they can be analyzed using remote sensing imagery. It compiles views of numerous researchers that help in understanding the urban growth and sprawl, their patterns, process, causes, consequences, and countermeasures. How remote sensing data and geographic information system techniques can be used in mapping, monitoring, measuring, analyzing, and simulating the urban growth and sprawl, and what are the merits and demerits of available methods and models. This book will be of value for the scientists and researchers engaged in urban geographic research, especially using remote sensing imagery. This book will serve as a rigorous literature review for them. Postgraduate students of urban geography or urban regional planning may refer this book as additional studies. This book may help the academicians for preparing lecture notes and delivering lectures. Industry professionals may also be benefited from the discussed methods and models along with numerous citations.

Landscape Analysis and Visualisation Christopher Pettit, William Cartwright, Ian Bishop, Kim Lowell, David Pullar, David Duncan, 2008-06-03 Michael Batty Centre for Advanced Spatial Analysis University College London Landscapes like cities cut across disciplines and professions. This makes it especially difficult to provide an overall sense of how landscapes should be studied and researched. Ecology, aesthetics, economy, and sociology combine with physiognomy and deep physical structure to confuse our understanding and the way we should react to the problems and potentials of landscapes. Nowhere are these dilemmas and paradoxes so clearly highlighted as in Australia, where landscapes dominate and their relationship to cities is so fragile yet so important to the sustainability of an entire nation, if not planet. This book presents a unique collection and synthesis of many of these perspectives. Perhaps it could only be produced in a land urbanised in the tiniest of pockets and yet so daunting with respect to the way non-populated landscapes dwarf its cities. Many travel to Australia to its cities and never see the landscapes, but it is these that give the country its power and imagery. It is the landscapes that so impress on us the need to consider how our intervention through activities ranging from resource exploitation and settled agriculture to climate change poses one of the greatest crises facing the modern world. In this sense, Australia and its landscape provide a mirror through which we can glimpse the extent to which our intervention in the world threatens its very existence. Advances in

3D Geo-Information Sciences Thomas H. Kolbe, Gerhard König, Claus Nagel, 2011-03-23 During the last decade, developments in 3D Geoinformation have made substantial progress. We are about to have a more complete spatial model and understanding of our planet in different scales. Hence various communities and cities offer 3D landscape and city models as a valuable source and instrument for sustainable management of rural and urban resources. Also, municipal utilities, real estate companies, etc. benefit from recent developments related to 3D applications. To meet the challenges due to the newest changes, academics and practitioners met at the 5th International Workshop on 3D Geoinformation in order to present recent developments and to discuss future trends. This book comprises a selection of evaluated high quality papers that were presented at this workshop in November 2010 The topics focus explicitly on the last achievements methods algorithms models systems with respect to 3D geo information requirements The book is aimed at decision makers and experts as well at students interested in the 3D component of geographical information science including GI engineers computer scientists photogrammetrists land surveyors urban planners and mapping specialists Virtual Aesthetics in Architecture Sara Eloy,Anette Kreutzberg,Ioanna Symeonidou,2021-08-30 Virtual Aesthetics in Architecture Designing in Mixed Realities presents a curated selection of projects and texts contributed by leading international architects and designers who are using virtual reality technologies in their design process It triggers discussion and debate on exploring the aesthetic potential and establishing its language as an expressive medium in architectural design Although virtual reality is not new and the technology has evolved rapidly the aesthetic potential of the medium is still emerging and there is a great deal more to explore The book provides a comprehensive overview of the current use of virtual reality technologies in the architectural design process Contributions are presented in six parts fully illustrated with over 150 images Recent projects presented are distributed in five themes introduction to mixed realities space and form context and ambiguity materiality and movement body and social Each theme includes richly illustrated essays by leading academics and practitioners including those from Zaha Hadid Architects and MVRDV detailing their design process using data driven methodologies Virtual Aesthetics in Architecture expands the use of technology per se and focuses on how architecture can benefit from its aesthetic potential during the design process A must read for practitioners academics and students interested in cutting edge digital design

Residential Location Choice Francesca Pagliara,John Preston,David Simmonds,2010-08-12 The effective planning of residential location choices is one of the great challenges of contemporary societies and requires forecasting capabilities and the consideration of complex interdependencies which can only be handled by complex computer models This book presents a range of approaches used to model residential locations within the context of developing land use and transport models These approaches illustrate the range of choices that modellers have to make in order to represent residential choice behaviour The models presented in this book represent the state of the art and are valuable both as key building blocks for general urban models and as representative examples of complexity science Application of Geospatial Technology and Modelling on Natural Resources Management Sandipan Das,Prem C. Pandey,Onesimo Mutanga,Suvarna Tikle,Mengjiao Jiang,Uday Chatterjee,Akash Anand,2025-07-04 This contributed volume provides coverage of geospatial technology and modelling techniques that are useful for natural resource assessment at various scales from regional to global This makes it a valuable resource for researchers practitioners scientists faculties and students interested in understanding how geospatial tools can be used to assess natural resources The book provides numerous examples of how geospatial technology and modeling can be applied to different natural resource management scenarios including forest management wildlife conservation water resources management and climate change adaptation The book takes an interdisciplinary approach to natural resource management bringing together perspectives from ecology environment geography geology and other fields

Spatial Database Systems Albert K.W. Yeung,G. Brent Hall,2007-05-23 The decision to write this book was motivated by a number of factors First although several useful textbooks on spatial databases have recently been published this is an area of spatial information science that has lagged somewhat behind the rapid advances of the technology and the profusion of books on domain specific applications Second much of the information pertaining to spatial database technologies is only available in scattered journal papers and conference proceedings and prior to this book no single effort has been made to sift through this expansive literature and unite the key contributions in a single volume The tasks of sourcing and coherently integrating relevant contributions is daunting for students many of whom have a substantial number of competing demands placed on them This book should make the task of knowledge building less daunting Third and perhaps most importantly an apparent trend in many spatial information science programs is to focus from first or second year undergraduate through to fourth year courses on learning to work confidently and independently with increasingly complex software tools Hence many courses are technical in nature and while they continue to produce technically adept students knowledge of the broader aspects of spatial databases is often not as complete as it might be among graduates Some programs have sought to address this by introducing courses that focus on spatial data management However these courses are largely unsupported by a relevant and contemporary textbook
