Grieving People - When Tears Are Not Enough J. Shep Jeffreys,2011-05-09 Helping Grieving People When Tears Are Not Enough is a handbook for care providers who provide service support and counseling to those grieving death illness and other losses This book is also an excellent text for academic courses as well as for staff development training The author addresses grief as it affects a variety of relationships and discusses different intervention and support strategies always cognizant of individual and cultural differences in the expression and treatment of grief Jeffreys has established a practical approach to preparing grief care providers through three basic tracks The first track Heart calls for self discovery freeing oneself of accumulated loss in order to focus all attention on the griever Second track Head emphasizes understanding the complex and dynamic phenomena of human grief Third track Hands stresses the caregiver s actual intervention and speaks to lay and professional levels of skill as well as the various approaches for healing available Accompanying these three motifs the Handbook discusses the social and cultural contexts of grief as applied to various populations of grieverers as well as the underlying psychological basis of human grief Throughout the book Jeffreys presents the role of the caregiver as an Exquisite Witness to the journey of grief and pain of bereaved family and friends and also to the path taken by dying persons and their families The second edition of Helping Grieving People remains true to the approach that has been so well received in the original volume It includes updated research findings and addresses new information and developments in the field of loss grief and bereavement

Dying, Assisted Death and Mourning Asa Kasher, 2009 Dying and death are topics of deep humane concern for many people in a variety of circumstances and contexts However they are not discussed to any great extent or with sufficient focus in order to gain knowledge and understanding of their major features and aspects The present volume is an attempt to bridge the undesirable gap between what should be known and understood about dying and death and what is easily accessible Included in the present volume are chapters arranged in three sections First there are chapters on aspects of dying written by people who have professional experience and personal insights into the nature of the processes at work and the ways it should be treated Secondly there are chapters on assisted death Euthanasia that illuminate the practices involved in the professional assistance given to persons who suffer from an incurable illness and who do not want their painful life to be medically extended Thirdly there are chapters on mourning examined in a variety of cultural contexts These provide insights for different ways of maintaining the presence of the dead in the life of the living life in the hearts
