

MALE SUBJECTIVITY AND POETIC FORM IN “NEW AMERICAN” POETRY

Andrew Mossin

Where you are he or I am he, the trouble of an Eros shakes the horloc-old in which we work to contain our feelings in our extending it into time and space. The nearness of this shaking — it is our own actual city built as it is high on the ground of a history written in earthquake — nakes for an almost womanish submissiveness in order we are fierce to keep. As if in all that play between Eros and Apollo, that comedy of hefts and infantile tocephosis and eductions in which poetry arose a drama of recognitions and the familiar of recognitions took place. ✨

Narcissus Sous Rature Male Subjectivity In Contemporary American Poetry:

Narcissus Sous Rature Jody Norton, 2000 In Narcissus Sous Rature Jody Norton argues that Contemporary American poetry's characteristic problematic is the subject's contestation of his discursive condition While self comprehension is a central recurrent concern in post literate poetry most poetries in English since the Enlightenment have conceived their lyric subjects in accordance with the foundational Western philosophical assumption of the rationality of being However after Freud Heisenberg Saussure Derrida and Lacan conceptions of the lyric I as representative of a more or less permanent self conscious and self possessed personality inhabiting an ontologically dependable natural and historical world in a consistent way are no longer credible The problems of how to conceptualize the psycho linguistic structuration of the male putatively masculine subject and his relation to his cultural environment and of how to represent both the subject and his relations in a medium language that is complexly involved in the construction of both the subject and his representation and in a certain sense of the subject as representation emerge for Contemporary poets out of an historic moment particularly strongly marked by theoretical developments in extra literary fields Norton asserts that the lyric speaker in Contemporary American poetry cannot be understood unless the explicit and implicit dialogic relations between religious philosophical psychological linguistic aesthetic critical and poetic texts are made central to the interpretive project
