Fear of Aging

João Paulo Guimarães,2025-02-27 In the genre of horror elderly people are often used as a trope to evoke both a fear of death and a fear of aging Old age is therefore equated with bodily mental or social decline The contributors of this book investigate what exactly we are afraid of when we posit old age as a source of horror The aim is to harness the thrills and pleasures of horror to think about how quality of life can be improved in old age and how elderly people can be better integrated in our ever fearful and suspicious societies   Geriatric Neurology Anil K. Nair, Marwan N. Sabbagh, 2014-04-14

Aging affects neurological function leading to neurological disease As society grows older so do the neurological problems associated with aging These can be new neurological deficits due to the aging process itself or the effect of aging on already existing neurological conditions Neurologists will spend increasing amounts of time managing patients with age related neurological complications Geriatric Neurology brings together the wisdom of world leading experts They have crafted a new textbook to define this emerging subspecialty from basic science through clinical assessment and medical management to social aspects of patient care Geriatric Neurology covers The aging brain in neurology Assessment of the geriatric neurology patient Neurological conditions in the elderly Therapeutics for the geriatric neurology patient Management issues beyond therapeutics Comprehensive in scope but with practical focus for effective patient care Geriatric Neurology provides top of class guidance for the management of elderly patients with neurological disorders   And a Time to Die Sharon

Kaufman, 2005-04-19 A reassuring and illuminating examination on our conflicting wishes about the end of life how the politics and routines of the American hospital have formed our understanding and experience of death and ultimately why what we consider a good death is so hard to attain In a penetrating and revelatory study medical anthropologist Dr Sharon Kaufman uses two years of intensive observations and interviews with scores of patients family members physicians nurses social workers and other staff at several community hospitals in California to explore the heart of a science driven yet fractured and often irrational world of health care delivery where empathetic yet frustrated hard working yet constrained professionals both respond to and create the anxieties and often inchoate expectations of patients and families who must make decisions they are ill prepared to make She sought out the critically ill the dying and their friends and relatives She followed patients from admission to death days weeks or sometimes months later through what is often for them and their families a Kafka-esque journey She asked hospital staff what they were doing and why and stood beside doctors and nurses observing their work cynicism compassion and frustration And she paid close attention to the most important player of allthe hospital bureaucracy and how it impacts the manner and timing of patient death Her investigative research links together the emotional experiences of patients and families the dedicated work of hospital staff and the ramifications of institutional bureaucracy to show the invisible power of the hospital system itself its rules mandates and daily activity in organizing death and individual experience of it The book is the story of real patients and their families an account of what drives the American hospital today and a report on the complex sources and implications of doing something about death
