Memories Of The Unknown A Bilingual Edition:

Language Contact and Bilingualism René Appel, Pieter Muysken, 2005 What happens sociologically linguistically educationally politically when more than one language is in regular use in a community How do speakers handle these languages simultaneously and what influence does this language contact have on the languages involved Although most people in the world use more than one language in everyday life the approach to the study of language has usually been that monolingualism is the norm The recent interest in bilingualism and language contact has led to a number of new approaches based on research in communities in many different parts of the world This book draws together this diverse research looking at examples from many different situations to present the topic in any easily accessible form Language contact is looked at from four distinct perspectives The authors consider bilingual societies bilingual speakers language use in the bilingual community finally language itself do languages change when in contact with each other Can they borrow rules of grammar or just words How can new languages emerge from language contact The result is a clear concise synthesis offering a much needed overview of this lively area of language study

Memory, Language, and Bilingualism Jeanette Altarriba, Ludmila Isurin, 2013 A comprehensive and interdisciplinary approach to the study of memory language and cognitive processing across various populations of bilingual speakers The Unknown Soldier Ross Ericson,2016-08-03 Don't for God's sake come back alive cause we don't want to see your ugly stumps and your ugly scars We don't want to hear your midnight screams and tales of hell We all got along nicely without you thank you very much and now you're back you remind us things we'd much rather forget More convenient ain't it To have a dead hero A dead hero don't have complaints A dead hero don't even have a voice Jack stayed on when the guns fell silent to search the battlefields for the boys that could not go home for the dead and the missing for both enemy and friend And amongst the rusty wire and unexploded bombs Jack is looking for something looking for someone He has a promise to keep and debt to repay and now there is this strange request from the generals A story of comradeship betrayal and of promises both broken and kept following the carnage of World War One from the acclaimed writer of Casualties Ross Ericson It received its world premiere at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2015 before embarking on a UK tour Language, Memory, and Cognition in Infancy and Early Childhood Janette B. Benson,Marshall M. Haith,2010-05-22 Language cognition and memory are traditionally studied together prior to a researcher specializing in any one area They are studied together initially because much of the development of one can affect the development of the others Most books available now either tend to be extremely broad in the areas of all infant development including physical and social development or specialize in cognitive development language acquisition or memory Rarely do you find all three together despite the fact that they all relate to each other This volume consists of focused articles from the authoritative Encyclopedia of Infant and Early Childhood Development and specifically targets the ages 0-3 Providing summary overviews of basic and cutting edge research coverage includes attention assessment bilingualism categorization skills critical periods learning disabilities reasoning speech development etc This collection of articles provides an essential affordable reference for researchers graduate students and clinicians interested in cognitive development language development and memory as well as those developmental psychologists interested in all aspects of development Focused content on age 0-3 saves time searching for and wading through lit on full age range for developmentally relevant info Concise understandable and authoritative easier to comprehend for immediate applicability in research Individual Differences and Instructed Language Learning Peter Robinson,2002-09-27 Second language learners differ in how successfully they adapt to and profit from instruction This book aims to show that adaptation to L2 instruction and subsequent L2 learning is a result of the interaction between learner characteristics and learning contexts Describing and explaining these interactions is fundamentally important to theories of instructed SLA and for effective L2 pedagogy This collection is the first to explore this important issue in contemporary task based immersion and communicative pedagogic settings In the first section leading experts in individual differences research describe recent advances in theories of intelligence L2 aptitude motivation anxiety and emotion and the relationship of native language abilities to L2 learning In the second section these theoretical insights are applied to empirical studies of individual differences treatment interactions in classroom learning experimental studies of the effects of focus on form and incidental learning and studies of naturalistic versus instructed SLA

Ethnic Subjectivity in Intergenerational Memory

Narratives Mónica Fodor, 2019-11-05 In this interdisciplinary study Mónica Fodor explores how intergenerational memory narratives embedded in the speaker's own stories impact ethnic subjectivity construction Working with thematically selected life experiences from interviews conducted with second and late generation European Americans Fodor demonstrates how the storytellers position themselves in a range of social cultural and political discourses to claim or disclaim ethnicity as part of their subjectivity Tying narrative content structural and performance analysis to the sociological and sociolinguistic concepts of symbolic capital and investment Fodor unpacks the changing levels of identifying with one's ancestral ethnic heritage and its potential to carry meaning for late generation descendants In doing so she reveals the shared features of identification among individuals through narrative meaning making which may be the basis of real or imagined heterolocal discourse community formation and sustained ethnic subjectivity The narrative analysis demonstrates how the cohesive force among members of the community is the shared knowledge of story frames and the personalized retelling of these Ethnic Subjectivity in Intergenerational Memory Narratives draws on inherited often moving personal experiences that offers new insights into the so far largely unexplored terrain of the narrative structure of intergenerationally transferred memory retellings that will be of great interest to students and scholars of ethnic studies migration and identity studies

Mobilizing Memory Dónal Hassett, 2019-08-13 Over the course of the Great War a quarter of million settlers and subjects from Algeria served in French forces Thousands more crossed the Mediterranean to work in the war industries of metropolitan France On the Algerian Home Front men women and children of all ethnic religious social and political backgrounds contributed to the imperial war effort Mobilising Memory is the first study to explore how the mass mobilisation of Algerian society during the First World War transformed politics in the colony It asks how actors across the colony s racial ideological and class divides sought to legitimise their competing visions for Algeria s future by evoking their wartime service Without diminishing the coercive power of the colonial state it stresses the agency of the citizens and subjects of Algeria who sought to leverage their contribution to the war to enhance their positions within colonial society In doing so Mobilising Memory explores the consequences often unintended of framing political social and economic demands in a language rooted in the experience of the Great War It argues that the predominance of this shared political language grounded in notions of loyalty to and sacrifice for France meant that most actors in interwar Algeria sought not to break with the Empire but rather to renegotiate their place within it While these efforts rarely proved successful the volume demonstrates how they radically reshaped the practice of politics in the colony

Representation and Memory in Graphic Novels Golnar Nabizadeh, 2019-04-16 This book analyses the relationship between comics and cultural memory By focussing on a range of landmark comics from the twentieth and twenty first centuries the discussion draws attention to the ongoing role of visual culture in framing testimony particularly in relation to underprivileged subjects such as migrants and refugees individuals dealing with war and oppressive regimes and individuals living with particular health conditions The discussion is influenced by literary and cultural debates on the intersections between ethics testimony trauma and human rights reflected in its three overarching questions How do comics usually complicate the production of cultural memory in local contents and global mediascapes How do comics engage with and generate new forms of testimonial address and How do the comics function as mnemonic structures The author highlights that the power of comics is that they allow both creators and readers to visualise the fracturing power of violence and oppression at the level of the individual domestic communal national and international in powerful and creative ways Comics do not stand outside of literature cinema or any of the other arts but rather enliven the reciprocal relationship between the verbal and the visual language that informs all of these media As such the discussion demonstrates how fields such as graphic medicine graphic justice and comics journalism contribute to existing theoretical and analytics debates including critical visual theory trauma and memory studies by offering a broad ranging yet cohesive analysis of cultural memory and its representation in print and digital comics
