Ancient Borinquen Peter E. Siegel,2005-09-07 Publisher description

Bibliographic Guide to Anthropology and Archaeology ,1991 Nontimber Forest Products in the United States

Eric T. Jones,Rebecca Jean McLain,James F. Weigand,2002 A quiet revolution is taking place in America s forests Once seen primarily as stands of timber our woodlands are now prized as a rich source of a wide range of commodities from wild mushrooms and maple sugar to hundreds of medicinal plants whose uses have only begun to be fully realized Now as timber harvesting becomes more mechanized and requires less labor the image of the lumberjack is being replaced by that of the forager This book provides the first comprehensive examination of nontimber forest products NTFPs in the United States illustrating their diverse importance describing the people who harvest them and outlining the steps that are being taken to ensure access to them As the first extensive national overview of NTFP policy and management specific to the United States it brings together research from numerous disciplines and analytical perspectives such as economics mycology history ecology law entomology forestry geography and anthropology in order to provide a cohesive picture of the current and potential role of NTFPs The contributors review the state of scientific knowledge of NTFPs by offering a survey of commercial and noncommercial products an overview of uses and users and discussions of sustainable management issues associated with ecology cultural traditions forest policy and commerce They examine some of the major social economic and biological benefits of NTFPs while also addressing the potential negative consequences of NTFP harvesting on forest ecosystems and on NTFP species populations Within this wealth of information are rich accounts of NTFP use drawn from all parts of the American landscape from the Pacific Northwest to the Caribbean From honey production to a review of nontimber forest economies still active in the United States such as the Ojibway harvest of plants recounted here the book takes in the whole breadth of recent NTFP issues including ecological concerns associated with the expansion of NTFP markets and NTFP tenure issues on federally managed lands No other volume offers such a comprehensive overview of NTFPs in North America By examining all aspects of these products it contributes to the development of more sophisticated policy and management frameworks for not only ensuring their ongoing use but also protecting the future of our forests

Island Historical Ecology Peter E. Siegel, 2018-01-29 In the first book length treatise on historical ecology of the West Indies Island Historical Ecology addresses Caribbean island ecologies from the perspective of social and cultural interventions over approximately eight millennia of human occupations Environmental coring carried out in carefully selected wetlands allowed for the reconstruction of pre colonial and colonial landscapes on islands between Venezuela and Puerto Rico Comparisons with well documented patterns in the Mediterranean and Pacific islands place this case study into a larger context of island historical ecology

Tibes L. Antonio Curet, Lisa M. Stringer, 2010 The prehistoric civic ceremonial center of Tibes is located on the southern coast of Puerto Rico just north of the modern coastal city of Ponce Protected on two sides by a river and on the other two sides by hills this approximately 10 5 acre site remains as fertile and productive today as when first occupied over 2 000 years ago Such a rich region would have been a choice location for native peoples because of the diversity in all resources from land air and sea and also symbolically crucial as a liminal space within the landscape It may have been regarded as a space charged with numen or cosmic energy where different parts of the cosmos natural vs supernatural or world of the living vs world of the dead overlap Archaeological evidence reveals a long occupation about 1 000 years possibly followed by an extensive period of sporadic ceremonial use after the site itself was practically abandoned In this volume nineteen Caribbeanists examine the geophysical paleoethnobotanical faunal lithics base rock osteology bone chemistry and nutrition social landscape and ceremonial constructs employed at Tibes
