Mavroidis, 2011-03-07 This volume assembles a stellar group of scholars and experts to examine preferential trade agreements PTAs a topic that has time and again attracted the interest of analysts It presents a discussion of the evolving economic analysis regarding PTAs and the various dysfunctions that continually place them among the priority items for renegotiation by the WTO The book explores recent empirical research that casts doubt on the old trade diversion school and debates why the WTO should deal with PTAs and if PTAs belong under the mandate of the WTO as we now know it

Environmental Integration in the EU's External Relations Gracia Marín Durán, Elisa Morgera, 2012-03-16 The book examines the integration of environmental protection requirements into EU external relations focusing on unilateral bilateral and inter regional instruments which have been less explored than the multilateral dimension of EU environmental policy The book also explores for the first time the complex interplay and mutual influences between EU environmental integration initiatives and environmental multilateralism On the one hand it identifies the legal and other instruments used by the EU to support the implementation of multilateral environmental agreements in third countries particularly developing ones On the other hand it singles out the legal and other tools employed by the EU as a means to build partnerships with third countries in order to influence ongoing multilateral negotiations concerning the environment and sustainable development or to contribute to the development of new international environmental norms in the absence of such multilateral negotiations Ultimately the book traces the significant evolution of the various tools deployed by the EU to integrate environmental concerns in its external relations with a view to identifying emerging challenges and future directions

Global Economic Prospects 2005, 2004 This annual publication analyses the global and national dimensions of the investment climate for developing countries in terms of the policy and institutional environment This edition examines the growth of regional trade agreements which have risen eight fold in two decades with currently as much as 40 percent of global trade taking place among countries that have some form of reciprocal regional trade agreement Issues discussed include regional trading trends effects of regional agreements on trade creation trade facilitation and services investment intellectual property rights and labour mobility whether the proliferation of agreements poses risks for multilateral trading system and if so options for managing them The report finds that agreements leading to open regionalism that is deeper integration of trade as a result of low external tariffs increased services competition and efforts to reduce cross border and customs delays costs are effective as part of a larger trade strategy to promote growth Although regional agreements can prove beneficial to member countries they can have adverse effects on excluded countries and the lowering of border barriers around the world is crucial to minimising these effects The completion of the Doha Development Agenda by all WTO countries will reduce the risk of trade diversion associated with regional agreements and will decrease trade losses of countries excluded from agreements

Patents and Global Administrative Law David Tilt, 2025-07-18 The book applies values and concepts from Global Administrative Law GAL to international patent law demonstrating how limiting technocratic and overly economic language can be Highlighting the administrative foundations of patent law the book argues that in its international form it can be analysed using the same principles of participation transparency and accountability found in national administrative law At the heart of the book is a simple question What does international patent law look like when we approach it through the lens of these values What is being left out when patent law is described predominantly in terms of its technical legal provisions or economic impact The book presents three interrelated contexts EU patent law bilateral trade agreements and the multilateral space Modern patent law is increasingly discussed in terms of national competitiveness or economic potential which reveals only a narrow understanding of how patent law evolves and functions The vocabulary of administrative law provides a fresh way of recasting reframing and re describing the dynamics of international patent law in a way that is more accessible to those outside of a traditional patent scholarship audience A fundamental objective of the book is to challenge the tendency towards technocratic isolation in patent law The book uses accessible vocabulary and represents a new way of conceptualising and understanding how patent law develops on a global scale The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of patent law international law and administrative law

With the introduction of the euro much recent attention has been focused on the role of currencies and their national and international significance Whilst much has been made of the euro s achievements in harmonising Europe s financial dealings it is often forgotten that it is by no means the first pan national currency to enter circulation Indeed as the various contributions to this volume make plain the euro can in many ways be regarded as a step back to the future that is a further international currency in a long historical tradition that includes the Athenian tetradrachm the Spanish peso and the French franc Covering a timespan of some two and a half millennia the contributions within this volume fall within four broad chronological sections the first comprising three contributions that consider aspects of the European experience from classical antiquity until the high middle ages The discussion then leaps forward chronologically to the modern age given a focus by three contributions devoted to nineteenth century European developments These in turn are set within a wider spatial perspective by two essays that review first the classical gold standard primarily in terms of peripheral economies experience and second the Bretton Woods system Fourth and lastly the euro s origins and birth are explored in three further contributions By taking such a long term view of supra national currencies this volume provides a unique perspective not only to the introduction and development of the euro and its predecessors but also on the broader question of the relationship between trade and common currencies

Hoekman, 2004 Abstract Hoekman and Javorcik focus on policies facilitating firm adjustment to globalization They briefly review the effects of trade and investment liberalization on firms focusing on within industry effects They postulate that governments role in supporting the process is to 1 ensure that firms face right incentives to adjust and 2 intervene in areas where market failures are present Their main message is that while many policies could be adopted to address market failures they need to be carefully designed and implemented in a stable macroeconomic environment An institutional infrastructure that supports the functioning of modern markets is most important Proactive support policies of whatever stripe should be subject to cost benefit analysis based on the existence of an identified market failure and monitored for performance and cost effectiveness Transparency and accountability are critical in ensuring that interventions accomplish their intended objectives rather than being vehicles for rent seeking This paper a product of the Trade Team Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to examine the effects of globalization on developing countries World Bank web site Services Trade and Growth Aaditya Mattoo, Liberalizing Trade in Services Bernard M. Hoekman, 2006 Abstract Since the mid 1980s a substantial amount of research has been undertaken on trade in services Much of this is inspired by the World Trade Organization or regional trade agreements especially the European Union but an increasing number of papers focus on the impacts of services sector liberalization This paper surveys the literature focusing on contributions that investigate the determinants of international trade and investment in services the potential gains from greater trade and liberalization and efforts to cooperate to achieve such liberalization through trade agreements It concludes that there is increasing evidence that services liberalization is an important source of potential welfare gains but relatively little research has been done that can inform the design of international cooperation both trade agreements and development assistance so as to more effectively promote development objectives Research Handbook in International Economic Law Andrew T.
