Nagel, 2003-01-01 Policymaking and Democracy is the first volume of a three volume set that examines the multi dimensional role of policy in the development and promotion of democracy prosperity and peace The democracy volume brings together international contributions on the policy challenges faced by national and multinational bodies to promote a democratic political culture and encourage the growth and development of civil society The work includes chapters on integration and representation within the European Union the expanding role of NGOs and IGOs international parliamentary organs the future of the nation state in a pluralistic world and the importance of global consensus building

The Social Democratic Dilemma S. Thomson, 2000-05-26 This book examines the development of social democratic parties in Western Europe and suggests that instead of viewing a single model in the past it was more accurate to consider a Northern and Southern European version Each model varied in its characteristics yet each retained an adherence to the same core values But now a new version of social democracy is emerging that is characterised by an advocacy of the tenets of neo liberalism

The Citizens at Risk Pedro Jacobi, Gordon McGranahan, Jacob Songsore, Marianne Kjellen, Charles Surjadi, 2010-09-23 Local environments such as cities and neighbourhoods are becoming a focal point for those concerned with environmental justice and sustainability The Citizens at Risk takes up this emerging agenda and analyses the key issues in a refreshingly simple yet sophisticated style Taking a comparative look at cities in Africa Asia and Latin America the book examines the changing nature of urban environmental risks the rules governing the distribution of such risks and their differential impact how the risks arise and who is responsible The authors clearly describe the most pressing urban environmental challenges such as improving health conditions in deprived urban settlements ensuring sustainable urban development in a globalizing world and achieving environmental justice along with the greening of development They argue that current debates on sustainable development fail to come to terms with these challenges and call for a more politically and ethically explicit approach For policy makers students academics activists or concerned general readers this book applies a wealth of empirical analysis and theoretical insight to the interaction of citizens their cities and their environment

Stakeholding and New labour R. Prabhakar,2003-05-07 In Stakeholding and New Labour Rajiv Prabhakar examines two core claims Firstly that stakeholding furnishes the centre left with a set of Third Way principles of public policy that differ from those previously deployed by the Labour and Conservative parties Secondly Prabhakar contends that while explicit references to stakeholding have been scaled down by New Labour the concept remains important for understanding the ideology and the policies of New Labour in government Economy in Society Michael J. Piore,2013 Prominent economists discuss internal labor markets the dynamics of immigration labor market regulation and other key topics in the work of Michael J Piore In Economy in Society five prominent social scientists honor Michael J Piore in original essays that explore key topics in Piore s work and make significant independent contributions in their own right Piore is distinctive for his original research that explores the interaction of social political and economic considerations in the labor market and in the economic development of nations and regions The essays in this volume reflect this rigorous interdisciplinary approach to important social and economic questions M Diane Burton s essay extends our understanding of internal labor markets by considering the influence of surrounding firms Natasha Iskander builds on Piore s theory of immigration with a study of Mexican construction workers in two cities Suzanne Berger highlights insights from Piore's work on technology and industrial development. Andrew Schrank takes up the theme of regulatory discretion and Charles Sabel discusses theories of public bureaucracy. Supporting Lifelong Learning: Organising learning Roger Harrison, Fiona Reeve, Marion Cartwright, Richard Edwards, 2002. This book looks at what types of learning environments promote lifelong learning, how they can be organized to support meaningful learning, and what the implications of these shifts are for managers.

A Textbook for an Introductory Course in Sociology 2nd Edition Jose A. Fadul, Ronan S. Estoque, 2011. A Comparative Political Economy of Industrial Capitalism R. Mascarenhas, 2002-10-04. This comparative study of industrial capitalism is an examination of state economy relations in mixed economies ranging from the interventionist German and Japanese to the less interventionist Anglo American. Following the postwar consensus that resulted in the golden age 1950-1973 and ended with the energy crisis, the Anglo American economies adopted neoliberalism while Germany and Japan remained interventionist. This resulted in the emergence of national types of capitalism. While analyzing the increased competition between them, R. C. Mascarenhas also notes the influence of globalization as well as alternative capitalism with the survival and re-emergence of industrial districts.

Social Education for Peace C. Carter, 2015-04-08. Carter illuminates and validates the vital role of visioning in social education. The book features peace in social education with instructional recommendations, planning resources, and descriptions of transdisciplinary learning. It elaborates mindful citizenship across social, environmental, ethical, geographic, economic, and political realms.

Tend the Olive, Water the Vine Rachel Christina, 2006-08-01. Current international development wisdom promotes the inclusion of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) in national level policy making in the interest of strengthening state-civil society relationships, supporting locally driven, culturally sensitive development, and contributing to program and policy innovation. However, critics of increased state-NGO donor collaboration argue that it actually dilutes the power of NGOs to act in the interest of the local populations they were established to serve. This tension between the local and the global is connected to broader debates about the nature and role of contemporary educational development. Should education aim primarily at preparing citizens for participation in the global economy, thereby encouraging the integration of nation-states into a world economic system driven by the industrialized North? Or should it endeavor to develop in students and in communities North and South the ability to critique, resist, and transform that world system? Ultimately, this is a question of who owns development: international agencies and institutions or the communities being developed. This book examines the complexities of these negotiations in a particularly complicated and volatile context: Palestine, a particularly hot development field.

early childhood development. The international community's efforts to support early childhood programming in the developing world fall more broadly within the empowerment camp than do other development efforts, and in this case, in particular, serve as a source of important lessons about the dynamics of donor-state-NGO relationships, suggestions for improved development policy, and insights into forms of education which promote justice and equity in an increasingly interdependent world
