The Rational Peasant Samuel L. Popkin, 1979 Popkin develops a model of rational peasant behavior and shows how village procedures result from the self interested interactions of peasants This political economy view of peasant behavior stands in contrast to the model of a distinctive peasant moral economy in which the village community is primarily responsible for ensuring the welfare of its members Zambia, a Country Study American University (Washington, D.C.). Foreign Area Studies, 1979 Essays on the Political Economy of Rural Africa Robert H. Bates, 1987-04-20 The essays in this volume represent a dialogue between theory and data The theory is drawn from a branch of contemporary political economy which can also be labeled the collective choice school The data are drawn from Africa The book extends the methods of reasoning developed in collective choice from their original base the advanced industrial democracies to new territory the literature on rural Africa Such as extension challenges the power of this form of political economy It also enriches it for the central questions which motivate the contemporary study of political economy are often addressed with unique clarity in the scholarship on rural Africa Jamaica And The Sugar Worker Cooperatives Carl Henry Feuer, 2019-03-13 Between 1974 and 1977 as part of a wider attempt by Prime Minister Michael Manley s regime to carry out a democratic reformist strategy of development the three largest sugar estates in Jamaica were converted into worker managed farms Within a few years however the cooperative program was in disarray as the farms faced economic setbacks and as political conflicts developed among the sugar workers local authorities and the government Drawing on his extensive field research in Jamaica Dr Feuer traces the development and decline of the cooperative system and discusses the implications for the possibility of democratic reform In his view the logic of the cooperativization process conflicted with the priorities of the middle class which continued to dominate the Jamaican economy As a result the reforms were never firmly rooted in a political coalition with the resources to carry them out In light of the Jamaican experience Dr Feuer considers such questions as What are the obstacles a nonrevolutionary regime is likely to face in an effort to help the poor How feasible is it to mobilize the requisite political and administrative resources and neutralize the inherent constraints to reform Developing States, Shaping Citizenship Erin Hern, 2019-05-20 At the nexus of political science development studies and public policy Developing States Shaping Citizenship analyzes an overlooked driver of political behavior citizens past experience with the government through service provision Using evidence from Zambia this book demonstrates that the quality of citizens interactions with the government through service provision sends them important signals about what they can hope to gain from political action These interactions influence not only formal political behaviors like voting but also collective behavior political engagement and subversive behaviors like tax evasion Lack of capacity for service delivery not only undermines economic growth and human development but also citizens confidence in the responsiveness of the political system Absent this confidence citizens are much less likely to participate in democratic processes express their preferences or comply with state revenue collection

Economic development and political development in low capacity states Hern argues are concurrent processes Erin Accampo Hern draws on original data from an original large N survey interviews Afrobarometer data and archival materials collected over 12 months in Zambia The theory underlying this book s framework is that of policy feedback which argues that policies once in place influence the subsequent political participation of the affected population This theory has predominantly been applied to advanced industrial democracies and this book is the first explicit effort to adapt the theory to the developing country context

Keeping House in Lusaka Karen Tranberg Hansen, 1997 In April 1993 as part of the March on Washington for Lesbian Gay and Bi Equal Rights and Liberation hundreds of couples participated in the Wedding a symbolic commitment ceremony held in front of the Internal Revenue Service building Part protest and part affirmation of devotion the event was a reminder that marriage rights have become a major issue among lesbians and gay men who cannot marry legally and can only claim domestic partner rights in a few locations in the United States Yet despite official lack of recognition same sex wedding ceremonies have been increasing in frequency over the past decade Ellen Lewin who has consecrated her own lesbian relationship with a commitment ceremony decided to explore the myriad ways in which lesbians and gay men create meaningful ceremonies for themselves She offers the first comprehensive account of lesbian and gay weddings in modern America A series of richly detailed profiles the result of extensive interviews and participation in the planning and realization of many of these commitment rituals is woven together to show how new traditions and ultimately new families are emerging within contemporary America Just as the book is a moving portrait of same sex couples today it is also a significant political document on a new arena in the struggle for lesbian and gay rights In a larger sense Lewin s work is about the politics surrounding same sex marriages and the ramifications for central dimensions of American culture such as kinship community morality and love Lewin explores the ceremonies themselves which range from traditional church weddings to Wicca rituals in the countryside with portraits of the planning the joys and the anxieties that led up to the weddings She introduces Bob and Mark a leather fetishist couple who sanctified their love by legally changing their last names and exchanging vows in tuxedos leather bow ties and knee high police boots In an equally absorbing profile Lewin describes Khadija from a working class black family deeply suspicious of whites and especially Jews and Shulamith raised in a Zionist household She tells of how the two women struggled to reconcile their widely disparate upbringings and how they ultimately combined elements of African and Jewish traditions in their wedding These among many other stories make Recognizing Ourselves a vivid tapestry of lesbian and gay life in post Stonewall United States

State Power and Social Forces Joel Samuel Migdal, Atul Kohli, Vivienne Shue, 1994-08-26 This eminently readable 1994 collection of high quality country specific essays on Third World politics provides through a variety of well integrated themes and approaches an examination of state theory as it has been practised in the past and how it must be refined for the future The contributors go beyond the previously articulated bringing the state back in model to offer their own state in society approach They argue that states which should be disaggregated for meaningful comparative study are best analysed as parts of societies States may help mould but are also continually moulded by the societies within which they are embedded States capacities further will vary depending on their ties to other social forces And other social forces will be capable of being mobilised into political contention only under certain conditions Political contention pitting states against other social forces may sometimes be mutually enfeebling but at other times mutually empowering International Political Economy Yearbook W. Ladd Hollist,2020-01-29 The International Political Economy Yearbook will be published annually under the sponsorship of the International Political Economy Section of the International Studies Association at the Department of Political Science Brigham Young University The intent of the series is to describe and explain the structure and the dynamic operation of the international political economy and to explore their political social and economic impact on different countries be they advanced market economies newly industrializing countries or underdeveloped countries This first volume is an overview of the policy and research field of international political economy studies It explores what international political economy is what approaches and theories might broaden and deepen our understanding of the phenomena addressed what perspectives seem inappropriate or misdirected and why neither international relations scholars nor mainstream economists can any longer claim status as senior partners in the community of scholars and policymakers interested in these issues It also addresses major policy problems confronting both advanced and developing countries including commodity trade foreign investment regulation of multinational corporations food shortages and other development problems industrial crises in the United States and Europe international debt and the increased role of the state in different economies State of the Continent M. Fobanjong,2018-12-29 What precisely is the state of the African continent today Depending on ones perspective the answer may either dwell on Africas recent economic and political accomplishments or focus on the long standing single story of failure disaster and eternal dictatorships This book provides a nuanced forceful and balanced assessment of Africas political and economic performance since independence While acknowledging Africas tragic pitfalls dating to the transatlantic slave trade and colonialism State of the Continent skillfully argues that theories associated with the dependency school are no longer enough to explain the continents failures in governance and economic performance For a continent so richly blessed and endowed with both human and material resources the blame for Africas lackluster performance falls squarely on its leadership To get things right Nkrumahs vision of the primacy of the political kingdom must be prioritized whereupon economic gains shall predictably follow In lucid and persuasive prose this volume is an ideal book for scholars as well as students of international studies and African politics

Zambia, Mining, and Neoliberalism A. Fraser,M. Larmer,2010-12-20 This book paints a vivid picture of Zambia s experience riding the copper price rollercoaster It brings together the best of recent research on Zambia s mining industry from eminent scholars in history geography anthropology politics sociology and economics The authors discuss how aid donors pressed Zambia to privatize its key industry and how multinational mining houses took advantage of tax breaks and lax regulation It considers the opportunities and dangers presented by Chinese investment how both companies and the Zambian state responded to dramatic instabilities in global commodity markets since 2004 and how frustration with the courting of mining multinationals has led to the rise of populist opposition This detailed study of a key industry in a poor Central African state tells us a great deal about the unstable nature and uneven impacts of the whole global economic system
