Muscle Foods Burdette C. Breidenstein, Donald M. Kinsman, Anthony W. Kotula, 2013-03-09 Traditionally in the food industry there has been a distinction made among meat poultry seafood and game Meat has historically been defined as the edible flesh of animals This basically referred only to the red meats namely beef lamb pork and veal including both fresh and processed products as well as variety or glandular meats It has been recognized more recently that all foods derived from muscle or muscle foods have basically the same or similar characteristics in physical and chemical properties Therefore it is logical to examine and consider all muscle foods under one cover This book therefore is an attempt to address the various attributes of red meat poultry fish and game under the single heading of muscle foods and to note any differences where they might OCCUT It is of interest that of the 10 top V S meat companies in 1990 8 of them were dealing with poultry as well as red meats and that 4 of the 10 were also involved with seafoods. This lends impetus to the inclusion of all three in a book such as this. Furthermore, the rapid increase in consumption of poultry meat to approximately 30 kg 65 pounds per capita and seafoods to 7 kg 16 pounds per capita compared to beef at 34 kg 75 pounds and pork at 30 kg 65 pounds, whereas veal and lamb mutton represent only 0.5 kg 1.1 pounds per capita. 52nd International Congress of Meat Science and Technology Declan Troy, Rachel Pearce, Brieghe Byrne, Joseph Kerry, 2023-08-28. This book contains over 300 offered papers in addition to 4 papers from invited speakers presented at the 52nd International Congress of Meat Science and Technology held in Dublin, Ireland, from 13-18 August 2006. Under the theme of harnessing and exploiting global opportunities, areas covered in the congress included meat quality encompassing genomics and biotechnology, animal production and production systems, muscle biology and biochemistry, meat safety, meat processing and packaging technology, consumer topics and meat and health. A new approach this year was to address specific hot topics important to the industry and meat scientists in particular: electrical stimulation and new instrumental methods for evaluation of meat quality characteristics. These proceedings reflect the truly global nature of meat research and give an insight into the current research issues for the industry. Lawrie's Meat Science Fidel Toldra, 2022-08-26. Lawrie's Meat Science Ninth Edition continues to be a classic reference in the meat world. It has been used by numerous generations of meat professionals since its first edition in 1966. The Postmodernist Turn J. David Hoeveler, 2004 During the 1970s the United States became the world s preeminent postindustrial society The new conditions changed the way Americans lived and worked and even their perceptions of reality Americans struggled to find their place in a world where symbol became more important than fact appearance more important than reality where image supplanted essence In this reassessment of a little studied decade J David Hoeveler Jr finds that the sense of detachment and dislocation that characterizes the postindustrial society serves as a paradigm for American thought and culture in the 1970s The book examines major developments in literary theory philosophy architecture and painting as expressions of a 1970s consciousness Hoeverler also explores the rival political readings of these subjects and considers the postmodernist phenomenon as it became an ideological battleground in the decade Clear and engaging the work will be of great interest to historians theorists and everyone who wants to further explore the 1970s
