The Language of Journalism Melvin J. Lasky, Hugely enjoyable and valuable I dropped everything else to read it A treasure Charles Wheeler senior foreign correspondent the BBC The newspaper is to the twentieth century what the novel was for the nineteenth century the expression of popular sentiment In the first of a three volume study of journalism and what it has meant as a source of knowledge and as a mechanism for orchestrating mass ideology Melvin J Lasky provides a major overview His research runs the gamut of material found in newspapers from the trivial to the profound from pseudo science to habits of solid investigation The volume is divided into four parts The first attacks deficiencies in grammar and syntax with examples from newspapers and magazines drawn from the German as well as English language press The second examines the key issues of journalism accuracy and authenticity Lasky provides an especially acute account of differences between active literacy and passive viewing or the relationship of word and picture in defining authenticity The third part emphasizes the problem of bias in everything from racial reporting to cultural correctness This is the first systematic attempt to study racial nomenclature identity labeling and literary discrimination Lasky follows closely the model set by George Orwell a half century earlier The final section of the work covers the competition between popular media and the redefinition of pornography and its language The volume closes with an examination of how the popular culture both influenced and was influential upon literary titans like Hemingway Lawrence and Tynan Melvin J Lasky was the editor of Encounter in England from 1958 until its close in 1990 It was viewed as the most brilliant European periodical of its time Lasky served as foreign correspondent for the New York Times and The Reporter and has written for many of the intellectual journals from Partisan Review to Commentary He is the author of The Hungarian
