Kalman Lamb illustrates how the harm suffered by the athlete is a necessary part of what makes professional sport a desirable commodity for the consuming fan. In an economic system capitalism that deprives people of meaning because of its inherent drive to turn everyone into individuals and everything into commodities, sports fandom produces a feeling of community. But there is a cost to producing this meaning and community, and it is paid through the sacrifice of the athlete's body. Drawing on extensive interviews with fans and former professional hockey players, Kalman Lamb reveals the troubling dynamics and dangerous costs associated with the world of professional and semi-professional sport.

Sport, Health and Drugs Ivan Waddington, Andy Smith, 2013-11-19 Why do many athletes risk their careers by taking performance enhancing drugs? Do the highly competitive pressures of elite sports teach athletes to win at any cost? In order to understand the complex relationships between sport and other aspects of society, it is necessary to strip away our preconceptions of what sport is and to examine it in as detached a manner as possible the way in which the world of sport actually functions. This fully updated edition of Ivan Waddington's classic introduction to drugs in sport examines the key terms and key issues in sport, drugs and performance, and is designed to help new students explore these controversial subjects now so central to the study of modern sport. The book addresses topics such as the emergence of drugs in sport and changing patterns of use, the development of an objective sociological understanding of sports law, policy and administration, WADA, NGBs and the sporting federations, case studies of football and cycling, the case of sports medicine. An Introduction to Drugs in Sport: Addicted to Winning is a landmark work in sports studies. Using interview transcripts, case studies and press cuttings to ground theory in reality, students and lecturers alike will find this an immensely readable and enriching resource.
