Losing Control Global Security In The Twenty First Century:

Losing Control Paul Rogers,2000 A radical analysis of global security which argues that elite societies cannot maintain their power and position in an increasingly divided and environmentally constrained world Losing Control Paul

Rogers,2010-04-15 When Losing Control was first published a decade ago it was years ahead of its time Its argument was simple the real causes of global insecurity were the widening socio economic divide global marginalization and environmental limitations especially climate change and conflict over energy resources Paul Rogers one of the most original thinkers on international security pointed to a world in which irregular warfare from the margins would prevent powerful states from maintaining their position He even predicted accurately how the United States would respond to a catastrophic attack The new edition brings the whole analysis right up to date arguing persuasively that the world s elite cannot maintain control and that a far more emancipatory and sustainable approach to global security has to be developed Losing

Rethinking World Politics Philip G. Cerny, 2010-03-24 Rethinking World Politics is a major intervention into a central debate in international relations how has globalization transformed world politics Most work on world politics still presumes the following in domestic affairs individual states function as essentially unified entities and in international affairs stable nation states interact with each other In this scholarship the state lies at the center it is what politics is all about However Philip Cerny contends that recent experience suggests another process at work transnational neopluralism In the old version of pluralist theory the state is less a cohesive and unified entity than a varyingly stable amalgam of competing and cross cutting interest groups that surround and populate it Cerny explains that contemporary world politics is subject to similar pressures from a wide variety of sub and supra national actors many of which are organized transnationally rather than nationally In recent years the ability of transnational governance bodies NGOs and transnational firms to shape world politics has steadily grown Importantly the rapidly growing transnational linkages among groups and the emergence of increasingly influential even powerful cross border interest and value groups is new These processes are not replacing nation states but they are forging new transnational webs of power States he argues are themselves increasingly trapped in these webs After mapping out the dynamics behind contemporary world politics Cerny closes by prognosticating where this might all lead Sweeping in its scope Rethinking World Politics is a landmark work of international relations theory that upends much of our received wisdom about how world politics works and offers us new ways to think about the forces shaping the contemporary world

Environmental Security Rita Floyd, Richard Matthew, 2013-01-04 Economic development population growth and poor resource management have combined to alter the planet's natural environment in dramatic and alarming ways For over twenty years considerable research and debate have focused on clarifying or disputing linkages between various forms of environmental change and various understandings of security. At one extreme lie sceptics who contend that the linkages are weak or even non-existent; they are simply attempts to harness the resources of the security arena to an environmental agenda. At the other extreme lie those who believe that these linkages may be the most important drivers of security in the 21st century; indeed the very future of humankind may be at stake. This book brings together contributions from a range of disciplines to present a critical and comprehensive overview of the research and debate linking environmental factors to security. It provides a framework for representing and understanding key areas of intellectual convergence and disagreement, clarifying achievements of the research as well as identifying its weaknesses and gaps. Part I explores the various ways environmental change and security have been linked and provides principal critiques of this linkage. Part II explores the linkage through analysis of key issue areas such as climate change, energy, water, food, population and development. Finally, the book concludes with a discussion of the value of this subfield of security studies and with some ideas about the questions it might profitably address in the future. This volume is the first to provide a comprehensive overview of the field. With contributions from around the world, it combines established and emerging scholars to offer a platform for the next wave of research and policy activity. It is invaluable for both students and practitioners interested in international relations, environment studies and human geography.

Security and Environment in the Mediterranean Hans Günter Brauch, Peter H. Liotta, Antonio Marquina, Paul F. Rogers, Mohammad El-Sayed Selim, 2012-12-06. In this volume, security specialists, peace researchers, environmental scholars, demographers as well as climate, desertification, water, food and urbanisation specialists from the Middle East and North Africa, Europe and North America review security and conflict prevention in the Mediterranean. They also analyse NATO's Mediterranean security dialogue and offer conceptualisations on security and perceptions of security challenges as seen in North and South. The latter half of the book analyses environmental security and conflicts in the Mediterranean and environmental consequences of World War II, the Gulf War, the Balkan wars and the Middle East conflict. It also examines factors of global environmental change, population growth, climate change, desertification, water scarcity, food and urbanisation issues as well as natural disasters. Furthermore, it draws conceptual conclusions for a fourth phase of research on human and environmental security and peace as well as policy conclusions for cooperation and partnership in the Mediterranean in the 21st century.
