Louis I. Kahn Klaus-Peter Gast, Louis I. Kahn, 1999 1999 is the twenty fifth anniversary of Louis Kahn s death In the second half of the twentieth century Louis Kahn s designs took on enormous significance for international architecture Kahn belonged to that generation of architects which perfected and simultaneously surpassed Modernism Most of Kahn s projects were realised in the USA and several large projects were built in Asia From Kahn s early work to larger projects such as the National Capital of Bangladesh in Khaka and the Kimbell Art Museum in Fort Worth the documented works all illustrate the human aspect in Kahn s work Louis I. Kahn Vincent Scully (Jr.), 1962 Over 100 illustrations plans drawings and photographs together with a selection from the writings of the architect complete bibliography and chronology Notes on the Architecture of Louis I. Kahn , 2015 Twenty-Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Simon Unwin, 2014-11-17 Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is an essential companion to Simon Unwin s Analysing Architecture and part of the trilogy which also includes his Exercises in Architecture Learning to Think as an Architect Together the three books offer an introduction to the workings of architecture providing for the three aspects of learning theory examples and practice Twenty Five Buildings focusses on analysing examples using the methodology offered by Analysing Architecture which operates primarily through the medium of drawing In this second edition five further buildings have been added to the original twenty from an even wider geographical area which now includes the USA France Italy Mexico Switzerland Spain Finland Germany Australia Norway Sweden India and Japan The underlying theme of Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand is the relationship of architecture to the human being how it frames our lives and orchestrates our experiences how it can help us make sense of the world and contribute to our senses of identity and place Exploring these dimensions through a wide range of case studies that illustrate the rich diversity of twentieth and twenty first century architecture this book is essential reading for every architect The Greenwood Encyclopedia of Homes through World History James M. Steele, 2009-03-30 The house throughout history in every place in the world has been built to provide shelter from the elements The dwellings that have resulted are as different as the people that have built them the social norms that prevailed at the time and place in which they were built and the natural environment that they adapted to Studying them now in a comprehensive way allows us to understand the social political economic and religious conditions that existed for their inhabitants They are a three dimensional record of culture Twenty four pages of color images along with black and white images through three volumes illustrate the homes of people throughout the world The volumes cover ancient times to the late Middle Ages the Renaissance to the Industrial Revolution and the Post Industrial Revolution to the

Present The Architecture of Ruins Jonathan Hill, 2019-03-25 The Architecture of Ruins Designs on the Past Present and Future identifies an alternative and significant history of architecture from the sixteenth century to the twenty first century in which a building is designed occupied and imagined as a ruin This design practice conceives a monument and a ruin as creative interdependent and simultaneous themes within a single building dialectic addressing temporal and environmental questions in poetic psychological and practical terms and stimulating questions of personal and national identity nature and culture weather and climate permanence and impermanence and life and death Conceiving a building as a dialogue between a monument and a ruin intensifies the already blurred relations between the unfinished and the ruined and envisages the past the present and the future in a single architecture Structured around a collection of biographies this book conceives a monument and a ruin as metaphors for a life and means to negotiate between a self and a society Emphasising the interconnections between designers and the particular ways in which later architects learned from earlier ones the chapters investigate an evolving interdisciplinary design practice to show the relevance of historical understanding to design Like a history a design is a reinterpretation of the past that is meaningful to the present Equally a design is equivalent to a fiction convincing users to suspend disbelief We expect a history or a novel to be written in words but they can also be delineated in drawing cast in concrete or seeded in soil The architect is a physical novelist as well as a physical historian Like building sites ruins are full of potential In revealing not only what is lost but also what is incomplete a ruin suggests the future as well as the past As a stimulus to the imagination a ruin s incomplete and broken forms expand architecture s allegorical and metaphorical capacity indicating that a building can remain unfinished literally and in the imagination focusing attention on the creativity of users as well as architects Emphasising the symbiotic relations between nature and culture a building designed occupied and imagined as a ruin acknowledges the coproduction of multiple authors whether human non human or atmospheric and is an appropriate model for architecture in an era of increasing climate change A House in the Sun Daniel A. Barber, 2016-10-13 A House in the Sun describes a number of experiments in solar house heating in American architectural engineering political economic and corporate contexts from the beginning of World War II until the late 1950s Houses were built across the Midwest Northeast and Southwestern United States and also proposed for sites in India South Africa and Morocco These experiments developed in parallel to transformations in the discussion of modern architecture relying on new materials and design ideas for both energy efficiency and claims to cultural relevance Architects were among the myriad cultural and scientific actors to see the solar house as an important designed element of the American future These experiments also developed as part of a wider analysis of the globe as an interconnected geophysical system Perceived resource limitations in the immediate postwar period led to new understandings of the relationship between energy technology and economy The solar house both as a charged object in the milieu of suburban expansion and as a means to raise the standard of living in developing economies became an important site for social technological and design experimentation This led to new forms of expertise in architecture and other professions Daniel Barber argues that this mid century interest in solar energy was one of the first episodes in which resource limitations were seen as an opportunity for design to attain new relevance for potential social and cultural transformations Furthermore the solar discussion established both an intellectual framework and a funding structure for the articulation of and response to global environmental concerns in subsequent decades In presenting evidence of resource tensions at the beginning of the Cold War the book offers a new perspective on the histories of architecture technology and environmentalism one more fully entangled with the often competing dynamics of geopolitical and geophysical pressures

Trajectories in Architecture Michael Jasper, 2023-04-21 Trajectories in Architecture Plan Sensation Temporality presents a compelling examination of underlying issues in late twentieth century architecture Three formal preoccupations and conceptual orientations are used as guiding threads or trajectories These three trajectories the plan as conceptual device a logic of sensation and temporalities serve to organise individual chapters in the central sections of the book and provide a new lens to the study of period work revealing architectural conditions and consequent spatial effects little explored to date Trajectories in Architecture adds to scholarship and expands our understanding of the role of conceptual and formal criteria in the analysis and creation of works of architecture The book provides potentially transformative new interpretations of influential architects and key projects from the last half of the twentieth century to reveal new alignments and potentialities in architecture s recent past as a contribution to identifying future possibilities In so doing the book argues for the still latent potential in modern architecture s traditions and design principles and their future expression Trajectories in Architecture includes analysis of significant projects of Le Corbusier Peter Eisenman Zaha Hadid John Hejduk Louis I Kahn and I M Pei
