Merit, Justice, and the Political Theory of Academic Knowledge Production Camilla Boisen,Matthew C. Murray,2024-08-09 Academia has long established itself as an institution of knowledge and ideas Facing pressure many academic fields and institutions have turned their attention singularly and collectively to the task of what to do to rectify the causes of under representations both academic knowledge itself and who gets to be an academic producer of knowledge Boisen and Murray argue that simply solving the contemporary symptoms of inequity in ideas knowledge production and the academy is not enough Political Theory must be used to analyze why dominant ideas and institutions namely merit and the resulting meritocracy and meritocratic procedures were given power in the first place In using political theory and theories of justice the book argues that academia must radically shift rather than procedurally reform these methods of evaluation in order to achieve a more coherent approach to diversity in ideas academic knowledge producers and academic knowledge production which are necessary to bring about other forms of social change and reform in our larger world In questioning the ideals and the use of rival ideals to temper flawed concepts the present motivations and justifications for producing academic knowledge can be relegated as political tools allowing true meaningful reform Boisen and Murray show how contemporary crises in academia around diversification of perspectives can only be solved by considering the justifications of academic knowledge production and the inherent risk of retaining the established competitive and presumptively natural but ultimately biased methods of deriving academic authority

An Anthology Regarding Merit Goods Wilfried Ver Eecke,2007 Merit Goods are those goods and services that the government feels that people will under consume and which therefore ought to be subsidized or provided free at the point of use The consumption of merit goods is thought to generate positive externality effects where the social benefit from consumption exceeds the private benefit Examples of merit goods are health services education public libraries and inoculations against certain diseases Van Eecke has assembled a collection of articles and papers that covers the issue of merit goods from a variety of perspectives and has provided a single source for researchers and economist interested in the issue The work begins with a thorough look at Musgrave s notion of merit goods The subsequent sections expand the definition of merit goods and provide information on the application of merit goods theory in economic philosophical social and religious terms The reference also has an extensive bibliography
